By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

NEW BUFFALO — Seven New Buffalo-area juvenile boys were arrested yesterday in connection with what police here said was a nearly year-long extortion of money from a 73-year-old widow.

Ed Lyons, New Buffalo police officer, said this morning that police expected to arrest three more juveniles in connection with the bizarre story of threats, property damage and at least one assault on the woman. Lyons added that warrants have also been authorized for the parents of two of the boys who police say were aware of their sons' actions.

Two of the boys were taken into custody yesterday morning after New Buffalo police and Berrien Metro crime officers observed them demand cash from Mrs. Emma Welderich, Lyons said. Their apprehension led to the arrests of the other five boys, all ages 12-16, later in the morning, he said. Mrs. Welderich told police the extortion and threats began about a year ago when a group of boys began demanding initial payments of $1. She said the demands eventually rose to $7.

Mrs. Welderich told police she kept records of the cash she handed over to the boys under threats, and on some days paid as much as $53. Lyons said the payments averaged about $100 per month. Lyons said neighbors of the woman called police after seeing the boys in front of the woman's Ferena Square apartment. Mrs. Welderich said she was afraid to call officers because she was a resident of Nazi-occupied Czechoslovakia during World War II and feared police.

The woman told police the boys would kick in her doors, break windows, burn her carpets with cigarettes and destroy her flowers if she did not pay them.

He said that the woman told officers that last week several of the youths entered her apartment while she was canning applesauce. When she could not give the boys the cash they demanded the took a spoon containing hot applesauce and poured it over her right hand, giving her third-degree burns, Mrs. Welderich said.

Lyons said that one of the boys has been lodged in the Berrien county youth detention center in Berrien Center. The other six have been released to the custody of their parents.

Major Loss Won't Stop Book Collector

By JOHN DYE

South Berrien Bureau

THREE OAKS — Donald Allen of Three Oaks labored over 25 years to collect some 200,000 rare and out-of-print books but it took a Tuesday afternoon fire only a few hours to destroy about half of the collection.

Loss of the valuable books would be a blow to any book dealer such as Allen, but the experience was doubly painful for the 47-year-old retired weighmaster. The books, valued at between $250,000 and $300,000 were not insured, Allen said.

Tuesday afternoon a fire swept through a two-story barn, rented by Allen and located behind his house on North Elm street. Both the structure and the books were destroyed in the blaze.

After surveying the damage Wednesday morning, Allen vowed to continue the business that began as a hobby and to attempt to restore the collection to its former size.

"Once you're hooked, you can't let go," said Allen of his decision to begin recollecting the books destroyed by the fire. "It may take some time, but I'll do it," he said.

Allen said that he began storing the books in the barn he rented from Raymond Hoffman of Three Oaks because there was no more room for books in either his house or a small building located next to the house. He said insurance companies would not cover the books stored in the barn because they did not consider the structure safe enough the house the volumes.

The book dealer did sound one optimistic note despite the loss of the books. "At least the most valuable half of my collection was in the house and the other building and not destroyed in the fire," he said.

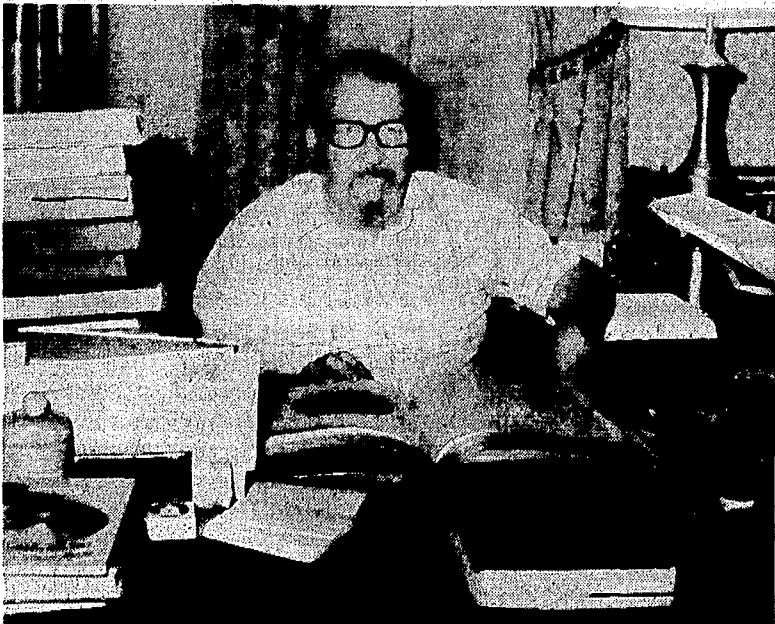

Allen said he began collecting books some 25 years ago because, "I always liked to read." He said the number of books continued grow steadily for about 10 years when he decided that he would either have to stop collecting books or take up the avocation seriously.

Allen opted for the second alternative and now boasts of a business that includes major universities and museums throughout the United States and Europe. He retired in 1968 from his job as a weighmaster to devote full time to the book business.

The book dealer said he specializes in no particular area, but has a selection of books covering a wide area of science, history and philosophy. Allen said that his prized books, some printed in the 1400's were not stored in the barn. The books destroyed, although out of print, are still available from other book dealers he said.

Allen said firemen are still not certain what sparked the blaze, but said he had spread straw in a portion of the barn where he kept dogs. Tuesday's high temperatures may have sparked a fire in the straw which spread to the portion of the barn where the books are stored.

Even after spending a sleepless Tuesday night concerned about the loss of the books, Allen was able to make some lightness out of the situation. "My lawn mower was also destroyed, but it really doesn't matter because most of my yard was burned by the fire," he said.

COLLECTOR TO CONTINUE: Donald Allen of Three Oaks said yesterday that he planned to begin recollecting books that were destroyed in Tuesday fire. A book dealer and appraiser, Allen said that half of his collection of books was destroyed in fire, but remaining 100,000 volumes were stored in his house and not damaged.

BARN, BOOKS BURN: Only charred debris remains of barn and over 100,000 valuable books stored in it that were destroyed in Tuesday afternoon fire in Three Oaks. Donald Allen of North Elm street, who rented barn and owned the books, said loss was estimated at between $250,000 to $300,000. (Staff photos)

Shouting Match Develops At Welfare Reform Rally

By MALCOLM JOHNSON

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A rally urging state welfare rules be tightened turned into a shouting match Wednesday on the steps of the state Capitol.

The verbal battles were between those who want current laws changed and welfare rights organizations. A state lawmaker ripped up a sign carried by a protestor and petitions urging change were dumped off a table as a trio of State Policemen moved between calling welfare rightists and a speakers' podium.

The hoots and boos of a large delegation of welfare supporters all but drowned out several speakers who demanded cheaters be taken off the rolls. However, the rally broke up without any serious incidents.

Several hundred supporters of change spread across the Capitol lawn to shout encouragement for legislation to tighten welfare rules. But their turnout — estimated at roughly 400 to 500 with state workers on their lunch hour and passersby thrown in — fell short of the hoped-for total.

Picket signs and placards abounded for both sides:

"Help the poor, not hurt them."

"Subsidize poor people, not legislator junkies."

"Stiffer rules are needed."

"Senator Young's salary could feed hungry families."

The last was a reference to Sen. Robert Young, R-Saginaw, who originated the rally and a petition campaign to call for closer welfare scrutiny to spot cheats. Young and Senate Minority Leader Robert Davis of Gaylord were all but drowned out by angry shouts from welfare rightists as they addressed the crowd. In the midst of the speeches, a ruckus broke out when Rep. Kirby Holmes, R-Utica, a vocal critic of welfare loopholes, grabbed a sign held by a welfare rightist and ripped it up, then grabbed another and tossed it aside. He then debated with the crowd of hostile protesters.

He said later he had asked the sign be removed from in front of him before grabbing it away.

"I wanted to hear and I can't see with a sign in front of my face," said Holmes. "Of course

COUNTER DEMONSTRATION AT CAPITOL: A citizen rally "to end welfare abuse" drew a counter protest Wednesday from the Michigan Welfare Rights Organization whose members are shown at top of state capitol steps displaying banner. An estimated 400-500 people showed up to back proposed welfare reform legislation while another 200 jeered and demonstrated against reform. Some 30 members of Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce attended in support of bill while about 50 counter demonstrators were reported to be from Berrien county. This picture was taken by Marie Franz of Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce staff.

'Unpopular' State Income Tax Hike Bill Introduced

By MALCOLM JOHNSON

Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to raise the state income tax by three-tenths of a percentage point has been introduced by a state lawmaker who says Michigan just doesn't have enough money.

Sen. Bill Huffman, D-Madison Heights, acknowledged there is little support for such a move now, but said his colleagues would change their minds when faced with painful spending cuts needed to balance the new $3.04 billion budget.

Huffman is vice chairman and an influential member of the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee. His bill would raise the income tax from 4.6 per cent to 4.9 per cent, effective Jan. 1. The increase would be about 6.5 per cent of the tax now charged. The tax was raised from 3.9 per cent last year to make up for revenue lost through the repeal of the sales tax on food and drugs.

"We should have gone for 1 per cent in the beginning," Huffman said Wednesday. "We knew then we'd be in trouble."

Gov. William Milliken is slated to issue an order soon cutting state spending by more than $100 million. And the governor says the cut should avoid further tax increases.

The state, crippled by the recession, cut the budget twice last year, juggled the books last June to utilize July's tax revenues, and still had virtually no surplus by the end of the fiscal year on June 30. Lawmakers only achieved a balanced new budget this summer by writing

County Board Majority Tells It Like It Is

Victor Greer, one of two black members of the Berrien County Board of Commissioners, declared it was "outrageous" Tuesday when the 11-member white majority of the board finally said flat out that it's through with being continuously—and falsely—tarred with the brush of racism. Ironically, Greer has no compunction about calling names himself. Just last week he joined a "Black Coalition" in urging the U.S. Labor Department to stop federal funding to Berrien county because of "discriminatory practices" against minorities.

As a matter of fact, if ever a statement was needed to set the record straight, it was the resolution adopted Tuesday by the majority of the county board. The resolution replied to a string of charges by the black administration of the City of Benton Harbor and the Black Coalition criticizing control of federal manpower and poverty programs in the county. The resolution charged Benton Harbor officials with trying to cover up their own failures and totally denied allegations of discrimination in the county's hiring practices and the division of federal funds. It quoted facts to prove the point:

"The Benton Harbor area has been allocated 66.3 per cent of the county's Comprehensive Educational Training Act (CETA) funds—a total of more than $2.5 million out of about $3.5 million.

The county employs far higher percentages of non-whites and females than exist in the county population. Of 1,001 county employees, 19 per cent are non-white and 67 per cent female, compared to a county population of 12 per cent non-white and 51 per cent female in the 1970 census.

East Germany Makes A Business Out Of Hostages

On this globe we call our world human depravity against other humans goes on unchecked. Whether it follows the special twists applied by Big Daddy Amin of Uganda or the broader spectrum of oppression practiced by the Kremlin, Peking and India's Indira Gandhi, the results demonstrate how much of the world remains uncivilized.

East Germany has its own version. With its jails filled with hundreds of its own citizens guilty of nothing more than trying to leave the country, East Germany ransoms these unfortunates to West Germany for cash.

Charging up to $15,000 a head, the East Germans find the sale of "political" prisoners a steady source of hard currency it needs to buy goods from the West. Life on this planet goes on, but under terrible conditions for many of its inhabitants.

FLUORIDATION IS 'MASS MEDICATION'

Your lead editorial of October 9th characterized the war against fluoridation as a "hit and run" war. One looked in vain through the text of the editorial for any substantiation. You state that "a determined handful of people in a small community can deny generations of children the protection of fluoridation." That is utterly false.

I think that it is safe to say that most people are not opposed to the use of fluorides for children's teeth. But why should the population as a whole be forced to receive it? Do their eyes need it? Do their bones need it? Do their nerves need it? Why make the whole body system of an entire population cope with it by putting it into the drinking water when there is a perfectly safe way to put fluoride on the teeth and only the teeth? Not only is it possible to have the dentist do this, but there are several toothpastes on the market which contain fluoride.

You show great concern for the children who are allegedly going to be deprived of fluorides if our municipal water systems are not medicated. What about the rights of adults who would thus be deprived of unfluoridated drinking water? Shouldn't there be given any consideration? Isn't it a fact that there is no scientific study of long-term effects of fluoridation on a particular population where there are control groups kept separate with particular attention to systemic retention, etc.? It seems to me that such a study needs to be made and the harmlessness of fluoridation proved before legislation is passed requiring mass medication.

FLUORIDATION: I'D VOTE NO

Editor, If I were still a Watervliet resident and had the chance to cast my ballot on the question of fluoridation of the new water supply, I'd vote NO, for these reasons:

1. I am opposed to blackmail, especially by our various levels of government. Thus my NO would express my feelings, not only against the threat of retraction of a lower-interest loan, but also against similar threats of economic pressures for failure to follow edicts of national speed limits, anti-pollution decrees, motorcycle helmet rules, etc., etc.

2. My fellow citizens and I are not brainless, and we realize that by following the state and national guidelines only for the sake of a lower-cost loan, we pay the price of a loss of freedom of self-determination. We know that in the long run the state funds come out of our pockets too, and that the low-cost loan doesn't really offer significant savings — not enough to pay for the loss of freedom.

3. The new water system supplies a LOCAL need, and thus provides no basis for state edicts, except for the natural desires by the bureaucracy to extend their influence, justify their increase in staff and budget, and ask for more tax dollars to run their empire.

No, I am personally in favor of fluoridation of the drinking water, just as I try not to drive recklessly or waste gasoline, and probably would wear a helmet if I read a motorcycle. But I want it to be MY decision to do so or not, and I will vote for replacement of those legislators who try to coerce me through blackmail.

THE C.I.A. IS A FUN AGENCY

"It must be a part of some new campaign to change its image!"

Ray Cromley

Is This Federal Agency Needed?

WASHINGTON — The story goes that a prominent U.S. senator was asked what Congress would do when the new consumer advocacy agency he had proposed got out of hand, as it inevitably would.

His answer was quick and simple: "Set up a new agency to watch and regulate it."

In Washington, there are dozens of offices and an assortment of agencies, whose job it is to watch out for the interests of consumers.

They do an abominable job — at great expense.

Some become captives of the industries they are supposed to watch. Some get so involved in petty detail in the collection of reports and the arguing of legal niceties, that they forget their objective is consumer protection, not paperwork and cases decided on bases so mushy they accomplish nothing.

A strong bloc in Congress is again pushing for a new agency to oversee all government consumer protection agencies and departments — and all other government agencies as well.

That new agency would be empowered to seek or mandate court action.

It would, if established, decide what is in the consumer interest. But there is no provision in the proposed law by which the agency would accurately determine consumer interests. Scholars I've talked to believe it inevitable that the agency, like the agencies it would monitor, would be forced to depend on information supplied by pressure groups.

Unlike congressmen, forced by elections to keep in touch, however poorly, with constituents, the bureaucrats would be largely isolated behind the walls of their Washington offices.

developing their own concepts of consumer interest, influenced largely by special interests.

Congress has an agency — the General Accounting Office — which has the power to check on agencies and departments responsible for protecting the consumer. Congressional committees have staffs and the legal means to require accountings from any agency or department falling down on its job.

Most congressional committees are charged with oversight — which means that they are supposed to be watchdogs.

More students of the Senate and House are coming to believe this job of overseeing or watching what they have created is as important or more important than writing a multiplicity of new laws each year.

What Congress is doing then is passing the buck.

The proposed agency for consumer advocacy is, it appears, simply another attempt by Congress to run away from its job and lay its failure to some executive agency created as a diversion of lightning rod.

As one scholar recently put it, the new consumer agency would deflect the attention of consumers from Congress and the regulatory agencies, defusing some of the political demand for less industry-oriented policies. But Congress will, by all past evidence, give as little attention to the new agency as it has to the old agencies it gave birth to in past years.

And so it will fail.

But not until it has wrapped us with a good deal of red tape.

Even so, it will live on. For a succession of administration and Congresses has found it impossible to reform or abolish agencies once instituted and set in motion.

Jeffrey Hord

Revered Document Largely Unreal

Not long ago, I found myself in a panel discussion at which one of the participants asserted that Thomas Jefferson's phrase, "all men are created equal" in the Declaration of Independence, enjoined upon us, now, a global redistribution of wealth. This man was a professor of government, no less, at an Ivy League college. Then, last week, a student in my freshman seminar at Dartmouth observed that the "all men are created equal" clause was indeed a radical thought.

Since total ignorance about the Declaration thus seems to embrace senior professors and freshman alike, and since the "all men are created equal" clause is certain to be rattling around during the Bicentennial year, a few words about it may not be amiss. Actually, short as it is, I suspect the Declaration is a revered, but largely unread document.

First of all, far from supposing it a radical statement, something surprising and novel, Jefferson regarded his "all men are created equal" clause as being among "self-evident" truths. That is, his readers would be expected to give virtually automatic assent to it. Far from being something previously unheard of, it was a commonplace.

But what does it mean? The clause, of course, occurs in the second paragraph of the Declaration, the opening paragraph of which — naturally enough — tells us what the document as a whole will be about. That is, it will be about political separation from Great Britain: "dissolve the political bands." The Americans aim to assume "among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them."

Eighteenth-century rhetorical procedure did not normally feature free association. What followed after that opening paragraph would be expected to bear on the announced topic — political separation, and the establishment of a new government. And indeed it does. Jefferson couches his argument in Lockian terms, social-contract thoroughly familiar to his readers. He begins in the second paragraph by discussing the condition of man prior to the establishment of government, in the famous "state of nature." It is there, prior to government, that "all men are created equal," that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Why then establish governments? Jefferson answers in completely Lockian terms. It is among the "self-evident" truths "that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men."

What "all men are created equal" means in this context, can hardly be the subject of dispute. It means that in a state of nature, prior to government, Americans are "equal to Englishmen in possessing those 'inalienable rights,' among which are 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.' Americans, in other words, are not naturally subordinate to Englishmen. No such rule of Englishmen over Americans is part of 'the laws of nature and of nature's God.'" What is asserted here is an equality of political entitlement existing in a state of nature. Americans are "equal" in all men in that they too are entitled to set up a government which will "secure" those specified inalienable rights.

Nothing whatsoever in the Declaration says that it is the goal of government, once established, to bring about a state of "equality," however that word be defined.

Mercy Opens Special Cancer Treatment Unit

Mercy hospital in Benton Harbor has opened a special unit that will concentrate on the treatment and care of patients suffering from cancer.

The new Oncology Section will be directed by Dr. Betty Koshy and Dr. Rodolfo Bacolor and will provide treatment to cancer patients through the use of radiation and chemotherapy.

Announcement of the new unit was made by Executive Vice-President C.T. Loftis, who explained that although physicians have been treating cancer patients regularly in the hospital, the Oncology Section is the first in this area organized to provide specialized therapy for victims of the disease.

He added that it will not be duplicated in other area hospitals. The Oncology Section will supplement the hospital's cobalt therapy and nuclear medicine activities in combatting cancer and investigational anti-cancer drugs will be made available as they are released by the federal government.

The supervising doctors also will work closely with the Midwest Oncology Center at Borgess hospital in Kalamazoo.

The new section is located on the second floor of the hospital's south wing and presently includes nine beds, two examining rooms, a doctor's office, chemotherapy room, nursing station, conference room and lounge. Plans call for expanding facilities to include 14 beds.

Emphasis in treatment will be for patients to lead as normal lives as possible, and most will be confined to the hospital for only a few days at a time.

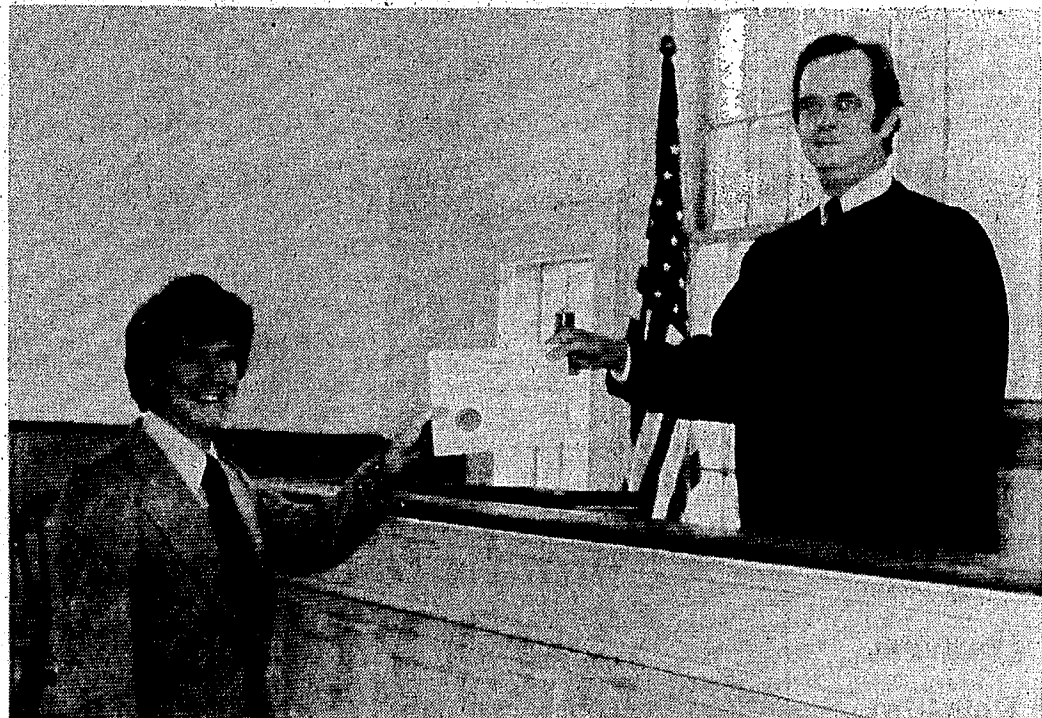

Nurses assigned to the unit will receive special training in working both with cancer patients and their families.

Patients will be admitted to the Oncology Section on orders of their physicians and a majority of treatment is expected to be on an out-patient basis.

Statistics from the National Cancer Institute estimate that 14,500 Michigan residents will die of cancer this year and that another 27,000 cases will be newly diagnosed.

The Institute estimates that one out of every four Americans now living will have cancer some time during their lives and that one million people in the U.S. are being treated for cancer at the present time.

Watervliet To Wait On Fire Pumper

WATERVLLET — The Watervliet fire board last night tabled action on bids for a new 1,000 gallon pumper fire truck until it learns whether it will receive a federal grant to help pay for the truck.

Board members said they hope to know by the board's Nov. 12 meeting whether a $22,500 application has been approved by the Farmer's Home administration.

Four firms submitted bids on the truck, with the lowest bid of $49,902 from Fessco Fire and Safety Equipment, Niles.

Other bidders were Pierce Manufacturing, Inc., Appleton, Wis., $51,469; Howe Fire Apparatus company, Anderson, Ind., $53,585; and Sutphen Fire Equipment, Amlin, Ohio, $56,710.

The board last month approved advertising for purchase bids, but stipulated that purchase depended on approval of the federal grant.

Besides the federal grant, the truck would be paid for by an $18,000 allocation from Watervliet township; a $12,800 allocation from Watervliet city; and an advance payment of $8,000 from Bainbridge township for future fire runs.

Fire board officials said that besides the initial cost of the truck chassis and hardware, other equipment, including hoses and nozzles, will bring the total cost of the truck to $60,085.

The Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Chapter of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers (MSPE) is campaigning to make students, parents and high school counselors in southwestern Michigan aware of engineering scholarships and grants that are available.

The National Society of Professional Engineers (NSPE) Educational Foundation is offering 65 awards, either scholarships or grants, totaling $170,000.

The MSPE and the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph chapter will be offering additional scholarships and grants.

The MSPE distributed $5,000 to 10 high-potential, technically-oriented high school students in Michigan last year.

Engineering scholarship and grant information has been distributed to school counselors. Applications should be completed by the students by Nov. 15.

The Benton Harbor-St. Joseph chapter and Lake Michigan college are co-sponsoring National Engineering Aptitude Search test Jan. 14. The test is for high school students and intended to help them identify their aptitudes and qualifications for taking engineering on a college level.

The Aptitude Search test is not a scholarship test. Keith Hood, chapter scholarship chairman, said. He noted, however, many engineering colleges throughout the country use the results of the test as a tool for informing them of qualified engineering students and scholarship candidates.

The student also completes the self directed search test which the student answers and interprets at home. Cost of the two tests is $5.

Students should contact counselors for information and application forms.

All applications should be sent to Hood at 175 West Main street (1&M Electric Co.) Benton Harbor by Nov. 15.

BH Man Faces Extortion Charge

A Benton Harbor man was arrested Wednesday on a charge of extortion after an attempt was made to collect $1,000 ransom for a stolen car, city police reported.

Det. Lt. Alfred Edwards said the ransom was demanded of Transworld Volkswagen, 170 North Riverview drive, where a 1973 Volkswagen had been reported stolen.

Edwards said Frank Sciotto, sales manager for the dealership, was instructed in a telephone call to place $1,000 in a bag and drop it in a trash container at Colfax avenue and Main. An empty bag was dropped in the container and detectives kept it under surveillance for about 90 minutes until the arrest was made when a man picked up the bag.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was Vernon Lee Guidry, 18, of 893 Buss avenue.

Edwards said the stolen car was recovered in Benton township.

ADMITTED TO BAR: George Thomas Kimmel, III, of Berrien Springs, was admitted to practice law in Michigan yesterday by Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White. Kimmel, sixth generation descendant of first settler in Berrien Springs, is son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Kimmel, Jr., of 142 Hillcrest drive, Berrien Springs. He attended Andrews university for two years, received bachelor's degree from University of Michigan and law degree in 1975 from Case Western Reserve university, Cleveland. He also has passed Minnesota bar examination. Kimmel, a bachelor, lives at 720 Main street, Berrien Springs, and said he plans to establish his own law practice in Berrien Springs area. ## Teachers Ratify BH Pact

Benton Harbor teachers Wednesday voted 258 to 12 for ratification of a new master contract, according to Camilla Hunt, president of the Benton Harbor Education Association.

The teachers approved the two-year contract settlement reached by negotiators for the teachers and school board during an 11-hour bargaining session Oct. 7.

Details of the contract will not be released until after both parties ratify the pact, Mrs. Hunt said.

The Benton Harbor board of education is expected to consider ratification of the contract Monday. James Caudill, director of communication and information services for Benton Harbor schools, said contract ratification is on the agenda for the board's regular meeting Monday.

St. Joe Firemen Halt Blaze In Auto's Engine

St. Joseph firemen extinguished a fire in the engine compartment of a car owned by Ruth Becker, 1114 Napier avenue, St. Joseph, yesterday afternoon. Firemen said the fire flared up unexpectedly while the car was being driven on Niles avenue near Botham but they could not determine the cause. The fire did considerable damage to the 1968 model auto.

DR. CHARLES GOLDSTEIN Promoted At Whirlpool

Zany Humor Highlights Opener

Twin City Players

By ANITA SMITH
Staff Writer

Zany comedians, including a tipsy chambermaid and a "helpful" handyman, are giving area theatergoers an evening of rollicking humor in the Twin City Players' season opener, "Natalie Needs A Nightie."

The comedy will be presented again Friday, Oct. 17, through Sunday, Oct. 19, at Twin City Players Studio Theatre, Red Arrow highway at I-94, Stevensville. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 7 p.m. Sunday.

A near capacity audience watched as Tom Ferren as John Watson, handyman and friend, and Phyllis Story as Rosebud, a tipsy chambermaid with a penchant for gin, steal the show.

Rosebud has been told by Tommy Briggs, played by W. Gary Baker, that when there are clothes on a chair she is to take them to the cleaners.

Since Rosebud's always sneaking in for a little gin, she's always running off with clothes put on the chair, leaving the cast adorned in whatever is handy — a lavender nightie, a bed spread, a towel or only their underwear.

Briggs, unmarried, lies to his boss, Juniper J. Juniper, skillfully portrayed by Jim Burandt, and pandemonium breaks loose when Briggs finds himself with three wives.

Jimmy Wilson, an old school friend played by Jack Stiefel, is hilarious as Briggs' curvaceous wife. But Briggs also receives the unsolicited services of Watson and, the by now inebriated, Rosebud, who try to pass as his wife.

Adding to the confusion were excellent performances by Barbara Jo Price as Natalie Newsome and Julie Price as Thomasa "Tommy" Briggs.

Players exhibit perfect timing with "wives," drunken hotel help and employee and employer popping in and out of doors from under the bed and out of closets.

The Neil and Caroline Schaffner farce is directed by Carol Handy and is being presented by special arrangement with Samuel French, Inc.

Twin City Players next production will be "6 Rms. Riv Vu" Nov. 21-23 and Nov. 28-30.

SECOND WEEKEND: "Natalie Needs A Nightie" will begin its second week of performances Friday, Oct. 17, at Twin City Players Studio, Red Arrow highway at I-94, Stevensville. The play will also be presented Saturday, Oct. 18, and Sunday, Oct. 19. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at 7 p.m. Sunday. The cast includes, from left, Barbara Jo Price as Natalie Newsome, Julie Price, Thomasa "Tommy" Briggs, and Jack Stiefel, Jimmy Wilson. (Staff photo)

Keep Peaches Properly

Keep peaches properly: If you don't intend to use immediately the fresh peaches you've purchased, store them in the refrigerator.

That way, they'll stay fresh for several days. Fresh peaches that have not fully ripened will do so when kept at room temperature a day or two.

But — whether refrigerated or not — serve fresh peaches at room temperature. They taste better and "peachier" this way. Another tip: Peaches that do become over-ripe can be used in blender "milkshakes" and punches and in jams, jellies and so forth.

Consumer Attitudes More Favorable Now

By MARYANNE BUTT
Staff Writer

Consumers have a tremendous amount of power to determine in which direction this country's economy is heading, a University of Michigan survey researcher told members of the American Association of University Women and their guests Oct. 14.

Jay Schmiedeskamp, director of the Survey Research Center, Institute for Social Research, U-M, spoke to the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph branch of AAUW at Win-Schuler's in Stevensville.

Consumer attitudes for the first time since late 1973 have become more favorable, he said. In the findings of the latest survey, conducted in late August and early September, 1975, respondents reported having heard more good news about the economy than bad. A majority of consumers said that the economy either has already begun to recover or will do so this fall.

Pessimism about business conditions was substantially reduced during the first three quarters of 1975, he said. The Survey Research Center at U-M studies the attitudes, expectations and inclinations to buy of the consumer, and their reasons for changes of attitudes.

He said that basically, the latest survey findings are reassuring, although there was a substantial amount of pessimism regarding inflation. After the rapid rate of recovery in consumer attitudes in the second quarter of this year, a period of hesitation or consolidation would not have been unusual, he said. Instead, confidence has continued to improve, but at a slow rate.

Reasons the recovery is proceeding at a slow rate, according to Schmiedeskamp, are: 1) Many consumers are really in a financial bind, in fact the worst since World War II; 2) there is a lack of confidence in the government and its economic policy; 3) the housing and automobile industries are not leading the country out of this slump as they usually do.

He said the survey data indicate a continued "slow recovery" in consumer spending in the months ahead. However, there are reasons to expect the recovery to speed up next year.

History suggests, he said, that sooner or later even a relatively slow recovery becomes widely visible to a majority of consumers. Thus, as the economy continues to recover, confidence should continue to improve, unless there are dramatic increases in the prices that people pay. An additional factor, he pointed out, is that surveys over several decades have shown that in an election year a sizable number of consumers expect economic policies that serve to improve economic conditions.

The latest survey findings underline a trend which has been visible for some time, according to Schmiedeskamp. Increasingly, consumers are sophisticated and aware concerning economic developments. The dramatic events in the economy during recent years have focused extraordinary attention on the economy and on economic policy.

He also said survey data during the last five years suggest that consumer attitudes and expectations are increasingly volatile in response to economic news, whether good or bad.

The finds, he said, suggest if recovery brings with it a resurgence of high rates of inflation, the period of prosperity after recovery may be rather brief.

If the slow recovery is to continue, the attitudes of the consumer are extremely important, according to Schmiedeskamp.

The American people are patriotic, have a basic faith in their own future, and are becoming increasingly well-informed on economic conditions — and for that reason, he believes a recovery should eventually result.

Announce Judges For Junior Miss

IRENE EDINGER

LINDA VENGELEN

Lakeshore Event Set

Mrs. Robert (Sue) Vander-molen, chairman of judges for the Lakeshore Junior Miss program, has announced the five judges who will select the winner Saturday, Oct. 25, at 7:30 p.m. at Lakeshore high school auditorium.

The 1975 program is being sponsored by the Lakeshore Junior Women's club.

Judges will be Craig Caulpetzer, Mark East III, Irene Edinger, Hugo J. David and Linda Vengelen.

— Caulpetzer is a designer for Clark Equipment company and has served as chairman and advisor in past years for the Lakeshore Junior Miss program. He is a past director of Miss Southwest Michigan Pageant committee, an official preliminary to the Miss America contest.

— East is a native of Benton Harbor and has studied at Chicago Conservatory of Music and appeared with the Chicago Lyric Opera. During his eight years in New York City, he appeared with Carol Channing in "Hello Dolly" and with Angela Lansbury in "Mame."

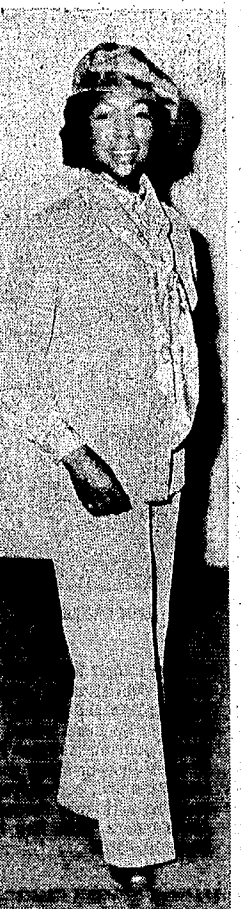

— Irene Edinger, who received a master of music degree in voice from the University of Michigan, has served as a judge for the Twin Cities Junior Miss competition for the past two years. A private voice teacher at Lake Michigan college, she has appeared as soloist with the Kenneth Jewell Chorale, Detroit, the Kalamazoo Bach festival, Cathedral Concert Series and Twin Cities Symphony.

— Dr. David is a past president of the Shoreham Village council and was director of student teaching center at Michigan State university. He has taught speech and English at the University of Illinois, University of Denver and MSU. He has also co-authored several publications.

— Linda Vengelen, a St. Joseph elementary teacher, is a diagnostic prescriptive consultant in reading. She is a doctoral candidate at Western Michigan university and is a member of the parent board of the Piper preschool, St. Joseph, and is coordinator of nursery preschool program at First United Methodist church, St. Joseph.

Mrs. Ronald (Lynn) Flites is general chairman and Mrs. Richard (Jane) Berry is co-chairman.

Tickets for the program will be sold at the door only.

TO FEATURE ENTERTAINER: The Twin City Tymes club will present a style show, "What's Happening Now In Fashions," Sunday, Oct. 19, at 5 p.m. at Sinbads West, St. Joseph. Tickets are $6 per person and may be purchased from club members or at the door. Following the show there will be a "brunch" and dancing. Mrs. Matthew (Bernice) Robinson, left, models a machine washable polyester pantsuit with coordinated long-sleeved blouse and accessories from D&J Village Shoppe, Eau Claire. At center, Mrs. Luella Nunley wears a white cashmere, jersey gown from Blakes, Inc., St. Joseph. From The Peachtree, St. Joseph, Mrs. Cass (Ann) Yates is wearing a nylon evening gown. To top off the feminine gown is a mauve and rose polyester sequined jacket. Mrs. Georgia Shurn, right, models a four-piece outfit from Goldblatt Brothers, Benton Harbor. The polyester outfit consists of a turtle neck sweater, silk screen print blouse, cinnamon jacket and gray A-line skirt. Cinnamon slacks are also available. Mel Farmer is wearing a brown Donegal tweed suit with reversible vest and contrasting slacks from Blakes, Inc. Other stores providing fashions are Johnnie's Fashions, Benton Harbor, and the Upper Half, St. Joseph, and Adent's Bridal Shop, St. Joseph. Planning chairman for the event is Mrs. Eugene Ray. Assisting her are Mrs. Ellis Griffin, Mrs. Robinson and Miss Mary Joseph. A special feature of the show will be the appearance of Ben Sexton, "The Mechanical Man." Sexton is a model, actor and singer and has appeared throughout the country and with many famous personalities. (Staff photos)

U-M Cast Member

Sunday, Oct. 19; Tuesday, Oct. 21, Wednesday, Oct. 22, Thursday, Oct. 23 and Friday, Oct. 24, at 7:30 p.m.; and Saturday, Oct. 25, at 8:15 and 11 a.m., with the closing sermon at 5 p.m.

Marshall will speak Saturday, Oct. 18, at 5 p.m. and Monday, Oct. 20, at 8:30 p.m. Meeker will conduct the session at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 20.

Be Unique With Pears

Luscious canned Bartlett pears have protein-rich cottage cheese have long been a popular salad pair.

For some tasty variations, combine cottage cheese with one of the following: Crumbled blue cheese, chopped green pepper, celery or cucumber, minced chives, grated carrot, candied ginger or dried herbs.

Or, try chopped maraschino cherries and coconut, chutney, dry salad dressing mix, or fruit-flavored yogurt. Serve over chilled pear halves.

Give Boost To Windows

Well-defined and designed window treatments get a boost from shades that feature thick and thin wavy-edged stripes.

Made of fiberglass overlaid with scrubable vinyl, they are available in six colors on white and in stock sizes or custom made. The shades are durable, colorfast, fire-resistant and room darkening — a good choice especially for bedrooms and nurseries.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

What She Needs Is A Lock

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 14-year-old girl with a horrible problem. My mother's brother is 26, very nice when he is sober, but he drinks a lot more than she realizes.

Mom works a late shift from 7 p.m. till 3 a.m. several nights a week and Uncle Hal drops over to see how I am. I've let him know I don't need a babysitter and have told him he should be taking out girls instead of coming to see me. He says he feels better knowing I'm O.K.

Lately I have awakened in the middle of the night and found Uncle Hal in my bedroom. He just stands by my bed and looks at me. It's very scary. I've asked him please not to do it, but he pays no attention.

Last night I awakened and he was unbuttoning my nightgown. He had been drinking. I told him to leave me alone. He left at once and asked me not to mention anything to my mother. Well, I did mention it to Mom and she accused me of dreaming. She also called me a troublemaker and said I didn't appreciate what a wonderful uncle I had.

What can I do about this? I am afraid to go to sleep at night because Uncle Hal has a key. Please help me. — Afraid Of The Future

Dear Afraid: A 14-year-old girl is old enough to make it abundantly clear to a 26-year-old uncle that she doesn't need a "babysitter" and he'd better knock it off or else. She is also old enough to go to a hardware store and buy a chain-and-slot lock for her bedroom door, install it herself and get a good night's sleep.

It's Too Late

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I were godparents for our friends' baby a number of years ago. We have always remembered the child on his birthday and at Christmas. We also babysat with her many times and took her to spend the day with us. We really loved that little girl dearly.

Three years ago we had our first baby and asked these same friends to be godparents to our child. We wanted to honor them as they had honored us. That first year they sent the baby a Christmas gift and came over a few times. The second year, not even a card and only one phone call to see how we were. This year we have not heard from them at all.

My husband wants to request that our priest take their names off the baptismal papers so we can ask my older brother and his wife to be godparents to the child.

We have argued this back and forth a dozen times and cannot come to a final conclusion. What would your advice be? — Annette And Joey

Dear A and J: Three years later is no time to ask your brother and his wife to be godparents to your first-born. Obviously you and the other couple grew apart. But life is unpredictable and sometimes that's the way the cookie crumbles. Accept the fact that you made an unfortunate choice and leave things as they are.

One Little Quirk

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago I married a man I thought I knew, but every few months I learn something else about him. Last week he told me he can't stand the smell of anything now. He asked me to wash his new shirts and underwear before he wears them. Is this normal? I love the smell of new things and can't understand it. I did as he asked, but I'd still like your opinion. — Don't Dig It

Dear D.D.: Call it a "peculiarity" and let it go at that. We all have little quirks — and this is his. If he never gets kinkier, consider yourself fortunate, kiddo.

Alumni Weekend

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Andrews university academy alumni weekend will be Friday and Saturday, Oct. 17 and 18, with all events being held in the Ruth Murdoch elementary school cafeteria.

Academy seniors will present a vespers program Friday at 8 p.m. An academy singing group, "The Connection," will perform at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, and Pastor J.D. Westfall will speak at the 11 a.m. church service.

Games, a film and refreshments are scheduled for Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

Meeting Tonight

BUCHANAN — Buchanan Modern Mothers Child Study club will meet at 7:30 tonight at the home of Mrs. Richard Wesner, 3210 Samson drive.

John Hulecki, speech therapist for Buchanan and Gullen schools, will present the program, "Speech Therapy and Your Child."

Mrs. Herman Jacquez will be co-hostess.

Legion Auxiliary To Meet Oct. 21

DECATUR — American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 309 will meet in the community room of the Webster Memorial library at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 21.

Mrs. Marie Baugh will be the hostess.

Remove Marks From Boots

White marks from rock salt on leather boots may be washed off with soap and water.

Boots should then be rinsed and allowed to dry away from heat before polishing.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's essential to keep your wits about you today. Frustrations will arise, but you'll get by if you reserve judgment till you know you're on the right track.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you want to bring your budget into line, start now to trim off the fat. Spend only what you absolutely must for the next few days.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You have a tendency to push others in order to accomplish what you want today. Don't expect them to do for you what you won't do for yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're overly touchy today in a possessive way. Loosen up — no one is about to take what is rightfully yours.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you follow your first inclination today you'll settle for second-best. Be a bit more patient. You can have the quality you really want.

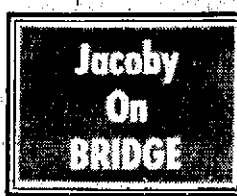

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll be dealing today with several temperamental associates. If you let them dominate you, they will. Stick to your guns. You can turn them around.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Set a sensible pace today, or you'll make lots of mistakes and burn yourself out. Be thorough and methodical.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Today's game would have been easier to bid if Holmes and Watson were using the Jacoby transfer, but that bid had not been invented in their day.

Anyway, Watson found himself in three notrump and proceeded to demonstrate that he had learned about safety from the master.

His jack of clubs won the first trick. A careless player would have played out high hearts. After that suit failed to behave he would have cashed three spades, stopping in dummy. With spades misbehaving also he would have fallen back on the diamond finesse to wind up with only eight tricks assuming the defense had been on its toes.

Watson found a better line of play. At trick two he entered dummy with a spade, led a low heart and stuck in his 10. When this worked he had 10 tricks in top cards, and managed an 11th by end-playing West. If the finesse had lost he would still have made his contract since West would not have been able to ruin his clubs.

Ask the Jacobys

The answer is that you should make a takeout double. You would like to have four hearts, but you just can't have everything all the time.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I am more sensitive to mosquito bites and insect stings than anyone else in the family. I blow up like a balloon when I'm bitten. Is there anything I can do about this?

Miss J.G., Fla.

Dear Miss G.: No one has ever satisfactorily explained why mosquitoes are partial to some people and not to others. Once you know that you are unusually sensitive to them you must make an effort to avoid them.

I am told that there are some sprays on the market which, when applied on the skin, seem to discourage mosquitoes from taking a nip or, in fact, staying in the immediate neighborhood.

Fleas, mites, bees, ants and mosquitoes can produce a severe allergic reaction in people who are particularly sensitive to the toxin they inject into a human skin.

When one has had an unpleasant experience and has been shown to be allergic, desensitization (immunization) can be tried. The technique is a complicated one and should be done by an allergist who has a special knowledge about the complexities of this desensitization process.

Dr. Howard G. Rappaport, of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, makes some important suggestions about how to avoid reactions to stings and particularly, how to treat them if you are stung.

He suggests: Sensitive people should learn to recognize and distinguish the characteristics of hornets, yellow jackets, bees and wasps.

People who are allergic to insect venom should keep away from flowers and not use scented preparations outdoors.

Dr. Rappaport says, "If you are stung, you should have epinephrine available for immediate injection plus a rapid-acting antihistamine. (This should be prescribed by a doctor.)

"If stung, remove the sting, which looks like a small splinter. To minimize the spread of the venom, apply ice to the skin."

Whenever possible, highly allergic people should immediately go to the nearest hospital when stung.

It is wise to keep in your wallet some notation of your hypersensitivity to insect venom. Many people wear or carry a medallion noting their special sensitivity.

DR. COLEMAN welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

Seek Volunteers

DOWAGIAC — Joys of Parenthood is seeking volunteers to serve in various capacities.

The public, as well as past participants, are invited to a meeting of the organization Wednesday, Oct. 22, at 8 p.m. at the First United Methodist church, Dowagiac.

Volunteers are needed to serve on the telephone, public relations, newsletter and artists' committees.

Joys of Parenthood is a non-profit, volunteer childbirth and parent education association based in Dowagiac and serving southwestern Michigan.

Primary objectives of the association are to offer learning situations to prepare expectant parents for participating and sharing in a mutually satisfying and dignified pregnancy and birth experience and to foster the growth of family-centered maternity care in the area.

The association and its services are available to all parents, regardless of race, creed, age, financial or marital status.

Joys of Parenthood is now conducting classes in the Lamaze technique of prepared childbirth and has recently expanded the full series to seven two-hour classes. Review classes are available for persons who have had previous Lamaze training.

Mothers Club Has Election

DECATUR — Mrs. Raymond Hynes has been elected president of Decatur Mothers club.

Other officers elected are Mrs. Jack Pedersen, vice president; Mrs. Charles Bukantz, secretary; Mrs. Lowell Johnson, treasurer; Mrs. Paul Capone, service officer; Mrs. Louise Conway, sunshine chairman, and Mrs. Ethel Wellman, ways and means chairman.

The club meets on the second and fourth Monday of each month, September through May, in the home economics room of the junior high school.

90th Birthday

MRS. FRANK WARNER

LAWRENCE — Mrs. Frank (Esther) Warner of Lawrence was honored for her 90th birthday at a surprise party Oct. 11 in the fellowship room of First Congregational church, Lawrence.

Mrs. Warner was born Oct. 11, 1885, and has lived in Lawrence since she was five years old. She is a graduate of Lawrence high school, attended St. Mary's at Notre Dame and received a life teacher's certificate from Central Normal at Mt. Pleasant. She taught school in East Chicago, Ind., Manistee and Lawrence.

Last May, she was honored by the State Federation of Garden clubs which granted her a life membership. She organized the Lawrence Garden club 45 years ago. She is also a national accredited judge of flower arrangements and special blooms.

Mrs. Warner has also been active in library activities, Longfellow club, Van Buren County Red Cross, Camp Fire Girls and the Order of Eastern Star.

She and her son, Robert, reside at 216 West St. Joseph street. Mrs. Warner's husband, Frank, is deceased.

Preserve Vitamins, Minerals

Preserve the vitamins and minerals when cooking frozen vegetables by using a steamer especially designed for this purpose.

A three-piece utensil features keep-cool, long handles and lid top. To steam, put a small amount of water in the lower section and the vegetables in the perforated inset. Without the inner section, the utensil serves as a sauce pan.

Made of heavy gauge steel with ceramic finish, the steamer washes clean in a dishwasher or sink.

Man Faces Bank Robber Charge

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A Mahcelona man charged with robbing a Boyne Falls bank is scheduled for a preliminary hearing in federal court Oct. 24. Karl William Erber, 36, was arraigned on the charge before a federal magistrate Wednesday.

BILLION DOLLARS

Does Mob Control Big Teamster Fund?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of Labor Department auditors is combing federal records of the biggest Teamsters union pension fund to determine whether the billion-dollar retirement plan is controlled by gangsters.

Records from the Justice Department and the Internal Revenue Service have been turned over to Labor Department investigators as part of a coordinated government review of the $1.4 billion Central States, Southeast and Southwest Areas Pension Fund.

Secretary of Labor John T. Dunlop said the purpose of the preliminary investigation is "to determine whether there is a basis for the current allegations against the Central States fund, and whether corrective action or enforcement proceedings are warranted" under the new federal pension law.

Dunlop's statement — the government's first official acknowledgment that an investigation is underway — was in a letter to Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., chairman of the Senate Labor Committee.

A government source said if anything is found which "gives us reason to go further," the Labor Department could begin subpoenaing records of the fund and coordinate with Justice on a massive dual criminal and civil investigation. "The options are numerous," the source said.

The retirement fund has been the source of millions of dollars in loans to resorts, gambling casinos, race tracks and condominium projects. It has been the subject of numerous on-and-off government investigations since the 1950s, but the disappearance of former Teamsters President James R. Hoffa on July 30 focused new official

Ford's Outline For New Budget Seen In 30 Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — The main outline of the proposed 1977 federal budget, including $28 billion in proposed spending reductions, "should be decided within the next month," according to Budget Director James T. Lynn.

Lynn said heads of government agencies and departments will begin reviewing their spending plans, including the reductions President Ford wants, with the Office of Management and Budget in the next week or two.

If they are unable to agree, agency heads will be able to appeal to the President, who "will take them seriously," Lynn said in an interview Wednesday.

Among steps required to get within Ford's 1977 budget ceiling of $395 billion may be cutbacks on growth in programs "that are generally called entitlement programs," Lynn said. These include programs for the poor and elderly. Entitlement programs are those that increase automatically when the cost of living goes up or when new beneficiaries qualify, such as Social Security, food stamps, veterans benefits, aid to dependent children, Medicare, retirement benefit and child nutrition programs.

Lynn said OMB has sent each agency head a spending ceiling for next year, including suggested reductions in programs that may be necessary to get within the ceiling. But he said agency heads are being encouraged "to come back with their own set of initiatives which may or may not be the same."

Labor Secretary John T. Dunlop said the White House did not suggest specific cutbacks for his department, but proposed "over-all reductions that are appreciable."

"They came to me and said, 'Save us X dollars. Please let us know how you do it,'" Dunlop said.

Ford urged on Wednesday that Congress agree to the budget ceiling he wants for next year to accompany $28 billion in tax cuts.

"Without a change in programs, or any new program," half the American people will be supported by the other half in the year 2000," he told a meeting of the National Association of Food Chains.

Ford also said he thought "very encouraging" economic statistics would be released soon showing that the nation's economy is on the way "to a sensible, long-range answer" to its problems.

The government is scheduled to announce Monday the nation's economic performance in the third quarter, as measured by the Gross National Product, and administration officials have predicted it will show much greater growth than anyone has predicted, possibly as much as an annual rate of 10 per cent.

The Commerce Department on Wednesday disclosed that the nation's businesses added to their inventory of goods and raw materials in August for the first time in six months.

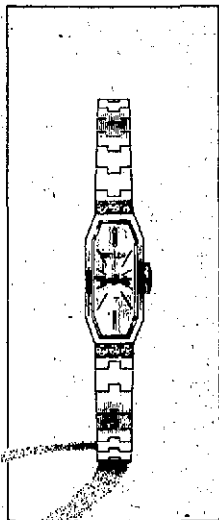

The department said stocks of goods in warehouses and showrooms increased $1.3 billion, or one-half of 1 per cent in August, reversing a decline from February through July.

Chrysler Sees 30% Sales Gain

DETROIT (AP) — A publicly bullish Chrysler Corp. unveiled its 1976-model lineup on Wednesday amid predictions that its car sales would increase about 30 per cent over the 1975-model year. But at the same time, company sources said the nation's No. 3 auto maker plans to cut production of compact and mid-size cars at its St. Louis plant by 20 per cent beginning Nov. 17, idling some 800 hourly workers indefinitely. That scheduled move follows earlier reports, confirmed by Chrysler sources, that the company will shut its only two large-car assembly plants for the week of Oct. 27, temporarily idling about 6,000 workers.

Effort To Probe Common Cause Is Tossed Out

By JIM KEEGSTRA
Associated-Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state House has changed its mind about investigating a citizens' group that was the main non-government force behind passage of Michigan's sweeping political reform law.

A resolution to investigate Michigan Common Cause was defeated 53-48 Wednesday. Passage required a 51-vote majority.

An investigation of Common Cause would "cast the legislature in a bad light," said House Speaker Bobby Crim in urging a negative vote.

"It's a bad precedent to investigate without a substantive reason," said Crim, D-Davison.

Rep. Quincy Hoffman, R-Applegate, sponsored the resolution. He said a study is needed because Common Cause's executive director, Doug Ross, said on statewide television he knew of legislators whose votes could be bought.

Ross refused to be more specific.

The group also "deliberately falsified its financial statements and then treated it as a joke, a mistake," Hoffman said.

However, information on membership and financing was freely offered on a personal visit to Common Cause's Lansing headquarters, said Rep. John Markes, D-Westland.

"I think I made an error," said Markes, chairman of the House committee which handled the resolution. The committee's "normal careful consideration" was superseded by a desire to keep an earlier commitment to Hoffman, he said.

Rep. Louis Cramton, R-Midland, opposed an investigation, saying it was "not worth the time and the money."

The group is "totally discredited," Cramton said. One of its petitions supporting political reform used forged names copied from a League of Women Voters petition, he said.

In other legislative matters, top Democratic leaders said their caucuses will decide next week whether to attempt overrides of Gov. William Milliken's vetoes of $4.6 million from the state budget. They said chances of reinstating some of the money are lessened by an estimated $100 million deficit facing the state.

The House passed, 101-0, and sent to the Senate a bill which would require drivers' licenses to show "if motorists have arranged to donate body organs for medical use in the event of an accident."

The Senate placed into position for final passage a bill to increase the salaries of district court judges throughout Michigan.

The bill would tie, for the first time, district court salaries to circuit court pay. The state's share of district judges' salaries under the bill would be raised to $23,850, or 90 per cent of circuit judges' $26,500 pay. The state supplement to optional local payments to district judges is now $21,500.

WATERVLIET — A race for the mayor's post in the November general election in Watervliet developed yesterday when City Commissioner Thomas Murphy filed petitions for the post before yesterday's 5 p.m. deadline.

State Income Is Proposed Tax Boost

(See back page, sec. 1, col. 1)

1.5 per cent across-the-board reductions into each bill.

With revenues not picking up, the House and Senate appropriations committees will have to agonize with Milliken over where to trim state spending. And Huffman says he thinks they will decide a tax increase is less painful.

"What you're talking about is cutting education," he said. "I'm sure the executive order will show a 1 or 2 per cent reduction in state aid for K-12 (kindergarten through 12th grade school districts).

"I know there's some water in the budget, but I know you can't cut $100 million out," Huffman said. "I'd rather be remembered as a guy who tried to provide absolute services rather than cutting higher education and K-12 to the bone."

Huffman said his tax increase would provide an extra $120 million a year, or $60 million in the six months of the fiscal year when it would be in effect.

According to budget director Gerald Miller, so far only the Department of Corrections has been exempted from the upcoming spending cuts. And Huffman said that when legislators begin getting heat from state colleges, mental health institutions and other state-supported agencies, lawmakers will reconsider their aversion to a tax hike.

Limousine Repairs

DETROIT (AP) — The American Road Insurance Co. will pay for repairs to President Ford's car which was damaged Tuesday in a collision, a Ford Motor Co. official says. The spokesman also said the Insurance Company of North America (INA) provides liability coverage on the presidential limousine and could wind up footing the bill for repairs to the other car involved in the Hartford, Conn., collision.

American Road is a subsidiary of Ford Motor Co., which owns the presidential car and leases it to the government.

Sheriff Asks Probe

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — At his own request, the Midland County Board of Commissioners has scheduled a public hearing probing the conduct of Sheriff William E. Maxwell. The hearing, which gets under way today, will investigate Maxwell's handling of personnel, evidence and department equipment, according to Earl D. Morris, chairman of the county board. The sheriff has been criticized for the firing and subsequent rehiring of the department's undersheriff and administrative assistant. Questions also have been raised about misplaced evidence.

District Judges Pay Hike

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to increase the salaries of district court judges has moved toward a final vote in the Michigan Senate. Final approval of the bill could come today. It would then go to the House. The bill would, for the first time, tie district court salaries to those in circuit courts. Increases for circuit court judges would mean pay boosts for lower court judges.

Injuries Fatal In Cass Crash

CASSOPOLIS — Cass county sheriff's deputies confirmed today that a Granger, Ind., boy injured in an auto accident near Edwardsburg Monday had died Tuesday as a result of the injuries.

Deputies said Patrick Wilder, 15, succumbed to massive head

Granger, declined medical attention.

Wilder's death was the 18th this year on Cass county roads.

Deputies said the auto driven by Crane was travelling westbound about 11:30 a.m. on May street at a high rate of speed when it came upon a gravelled portion of the road. The car went out of control, ran into a ditch, and became airborne, throwing Wilder from the vehicle.

Wilder was taken to Pawating hospital, Niles, and then transferred to Memorial in South Bend.

Deputies said this morning the accident was still being investigated.

Welfare Reformers Challenged

It wasn't proper, but you can get fed up. They came to destroy, not listen — this is the greatest testament to welfare reform."

Holmes obtained welfare benefits fraudulently last spring to show how easy it was to fool the system. He was unmasked by welfare workers and officials seriously considered indicting him as a welfare cheat.

"The people of Michigan have shown they really care about welfare reform," said Davis, who has sponsored legislation lightening the system through tough eligibility checks and other new standards.

John Dempsey, director of the Department of Social Services, read a message from Gov. William Milliken, who called for more change than Davis' bill provides.

UAW Building Solar Project

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers union members are building a solar demonstration project and other wind and water energy devices, UAW Vice President Odessa Komar said Wednesday.

Ms. Komar, director of the union's conservation and resource development department, said the UAW is building the model energy program at the Reuther UAW Family Education Center near Onaway.

Township Men Told Reform Bill Isn't That Bad

By STEVE SAGER
Staff Writer

Roy Lord, president of the Michigan Townships association (MTA), told members of the Berrien county chapter of the MTA that the Michigan political reform bill isn't as bad as rumored and said it shouldn't stop them from seeking office.

Lord, 70, was a substitute guest speaker at the bi-monthly meeting of the Berrien county chapter of the MTA last night held at the Benton township hall.

Robert Edwards of the MTA's legislative affairs division was scheduled to speak, but was unable to attend. Thirty-five persons attended at the meeting.

Lord, even though he says the political reform act isn't as bad as many believe, is not for the bill and said it is "communist" with its "aim to get rid of local government."

He is supervisor of Emmett township, Calhoun county.

According to Lord, one common misunderstanding of the political reform act is that certain local governmental officials will have to reveal how much they hold in stocks. Lord said as he interprets the bill a person would only have to reveal what interests he has holdings in, but not how much.

Lord said the bill, which passed in senate and is currently in the house, will most likely come under considerable revision.

"I don't think legislators really want to vote for it, but what are you going to do when someone points the finger at you and says 'What are you objecting to or hiding?'" he said.

Lord urged township officials who wanted to fight the bill to write individual letters to their legislators and for the Berrien chapter of the MTA to pass a resolution stating its collective feeling and then send it to the legislators.

In other business at the meeting members approved sending two members of the Berrien chapter to a meeting this Friday at Sturgis to discuss federal revenue sharing with Congressman Edward Hutchinson.

The Berrien chapter also heard a brief presentation from

W.C. Fields New U.S. Attorney

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — William C. Fields III, grandson of the late humorist W.C. Fields, has been sworn in as an assistant United States attorney assigned to the bank robbery division.

The 32-year-old Fields, an FBI agent for seven years, said he always had a "hankering to practice law" and enter the "theatrics of the courtroom." He was sworn in Tuesday.

Smashup Brings Fame To Youth

MERIDEN, Conn. (AP) — A fatherless high school dropout who was thrust into the national spotlight when his car hit Gerald Ford's limousine says Ford's "got bad luck."

A tired 19-year-old James Salamites said in an interview in his home early today, "I shake every time I think about it. I can just imagine what the President thought after I hit him."

Salamites, who had a green light, was driving his mother's three-year-old Buick with five other teens as passengers when it ran into Ford's $500,000 limousine at a dark intersection in downtown Hartford on Tuesday night.

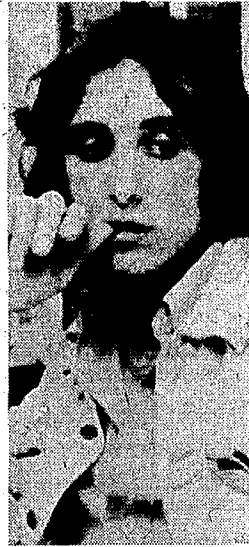

He said that after the collision "everybody was silent in the car. It took a minute to realize what had happened. Then I saw the President. He looked shaken. I thought I had hurt him. I backed up the car and the motorcade suddenly left."

"I have nothing against him; he's a good President."

Salamites added he's planning to write an apology letter to Ford, "but I'm not sure what I'm going to say."

The accident left Pearl Salamites without a car, with towing and storage bills and with a sudden disruption of her family's middle class routine.

"We're just not used to having so many people at our doorstep. A story is a story but it's over with. Let's be family again," pleaded Mrs. Salamites, visibly nervous for lack of sleep, with her three sons.

Brother William lay on the living room sofa criticizing the press. He said the roof of his car had been damaged by a newsman hoping to get a peek into the house.

Mrs. Salamites said she will walk about one mile today from her modest home to the jewelry manufacturing company where she works, since William needs his car to get to his job 25 miles away. Her car, now at Hartford police headquarters, was wrecked by Ford's armored limousine, which suffered only minor damage.

She said she was concerned about who will pay for the damage to her car, although she is insured. She said she wants to buy a new one.

Group Discusses SW Michigan Transit System

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

BRIDGMAN — Some 60 representatives of service agencies and governmental in southwestern Michigan and state officials met yesterday to discuss area transportation problems and the feasibility of a "regional authority concept" in providing transportation.

The regional authority transportation concept was a key issue at the day-long public transit workshop sponsored by the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission at the Donald C. Cook Nuclear center north of Bridgman.

James Roach, manager of mass transit planning for the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation, explained the regional authority concept as one agency providing all the transportation services for the entire region.

Roach said that one agency providing transportation services would be more economical and efficient than the present system. Currently, various services agencies, such as social services and the council on aging, provide transportation for their clients.

While no organization was named at the meeting as the agency to operate the proposed regional transportation authority, a regional Dial-A-Ride (DART) system was eyed by many as the most likely option.

Kip Grimes, project manager of the state DART system, said pending federal and state funds for a regional transportation authority would be channeled through the state DART system.

Ronald Griffin, chairman of the Twin Cities Dial-A-Ride system, said one method to implement the regional authority concept would be to expand the present Twin Cities DART authority to a county or regional level.

The meeting yesterday was called a "preliminary" meeting in exploring and possibly introducing the regional concept. Service agency and governmental representatives outlined services they provided and their transportation needs and problems.

US-27 Relocation

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The head of the state Department of Highways and Transportation says his agency wants more land for a proposed relocation of U.S. 27 freeway between Lansing and Ithaca. John P. Woodford said Wednesday he will recommend to the state Highway Commission that the portion of freeway between Lansing and St. Johns be located on a two-mile-wide corridor to the east of the current four-lane divided highway.

Teachers Can Live Outside Detroit

LANSING, (AP) — The Michigan Court of Appeals affirmed an administrative judge's opinion that Detroit teachers need not live in the city to continue employment.

And in another decision announced Wednesday, the court reversed a decision that had forbid public schools from holding classes for their students in leased parochial school classrooms.

In Detroit Board of Education v. Detroit Federation of Teachers, the appeals court ruled that "the residency requirement can only be valid as to the day of hiring" and is not a condition of continued employment for the Detroit teachers.

In Citizens to Advance Public Education v. State Superintendent of Public Instruction John Porter, the appeals court ruled that shared time programs in

Lesinski Talks To U.S. Jury

DETROIT (AP) — T. John Lesinski, chief judge of the Michigan Court of Appeals, appeared Wednesday before a federal grand jury in connection with bribery charges filed against Michigan Supreme Court Justice John B. Swainson.

Lesinski's stay appearance lasted 90 minutes and afterwards he said it would be "improper" to comment on what went on in the grand jury room.

However, before he entered the chambers, Lesinski said federal officials told him his appearance was tied to the Swainson case.

Sources familiar with the case said earlier that federal investigators wanted to question Lesinski under oath about his role in setting bond for convicted felon John J. Whalen, who made the original allegation against Swainson.

Swainson was indicted July 3 along with Detroit ball bondsman Charles Goldfarb and former bondsman Harvey Wish of Birmingham. The charges say they conspired to get a Supreme Court hearing for Whalen, who sought a retrial on a burglary conviction.

The indictment says Swainson was paid a $20,000 bribe.

Robert Ozer, chief of the U.S. Organized Crime Strike Force in Detroit, entered the grand jury room shortly before Lesinski appeared.

The three men go on trial Monday.

Gay Bill Facing Demise

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A bill aimed at preventing homosexuals from becoming policemen and prison guards has passed the Pennsylvania legislature but is likely to die on Gov. Milton J. Shapp's desk.

The measure, approved unanimously Wednesday by the Senate, was believed the first to have cleared any state legislature.

The proposal, introduced by a House member from Blair County, would apply to anyone convicted of or admitting to deviate sexual intercourse, as defined by state law.

Under the bill, such persons could not work as policemen, prison guards, or with the mentally ill, mentally retarded or juveniles.

Toxic Fumes In Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Highly toxic fumes from a plant on Houston's north side caused several hundred persons to flee their homes late Wednesday night. At least one person was hospitalized.

Fire officials said the fumes came from the Southeastern Plating Co. when 500 gallons of muriatic acid were mistakenly mixed with 500 gallons of nitric acid, causing the toxic chemical reaction. Police drove up and down the streets in an area near the plant and warned residents to evacuate. Crowds streamed into a nearby park to get away from the danger.

Kissinger Withholds Memo; May Face House Showdown

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger may be inviting a showdown with the House Intelligence Committee by refusing to give the panel a subpoenaed memorandum that alleges U.S. mishandling of the Cyprus crisis.

Kissinger said at a news conference in Ottawa, Canada, on Wednesday that he has offered to personally give the committee "a summary of views" on the Cyprus crisis handling.

But he added, "We will not submit documents, even without names." Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., already had indicated doubts Kissinger would fully comply with the subpoena, saying the committee would take up Kissinger's response when Congress returns next Tuesday from a week-long Columbus Day recess.

The committee subpoenaed the memorandum in a dispute over a Kissinger directive prohibiting lower level officials from telling Congress what recommendations they made for policy on such matters as the Cyprus crisis last year.

The memo sought by the committee was written by former State Department Cyprus chief Thomas Boyatt, who told the committee that it details what he considered to be U.S. mismanagement of the crisis.

Boyatt also told the committee he had been instructed that under Kissinger's new directive he was not to testify on what his own recommendations had been during the crisis.

A former U.S. ambassador to Cyprus, Taylor G. Belcher, told the committee that operations officials had tried unsuccessfully to get Kissinger to intervene and prevent the Greek coup that triggered the crisis and subsequent conflict between Greece and Turkey.

A week after the coup, Turkey invaded Cyprus and eventually occupied 40 per cent of the island with 40,000 troops.

Kissinger said he is willing to testify "in substance" about junior officers' recommendations in such crises but he said he is not prepared to identify the officers who made the recommendations.

"It is essential for the integrity of the foreign service that they can make recommendations that are not subject to later public scrutiny," Kissinger said.

Isabel Peron Back; May Get Permanent Vacation

By SUSAN LINNÉE AKIN
Associated Press Writer
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Isabel Peron has returned from her vacation looking tanned and cheerful, but plans for her to resume office as expected today were still not settled.

There was also speculation she would soon take another vacation, and that this one would be permanent.

Mrs. Peron planned a morning meeting with cabinet members and Acting President Italo Luder to discuss final arrangements for the transfer of power.

The transition ceremony had been expected today, but one local news agency said it might be delayed until Friday morning. Meanwhile, the Peronist movement went ahead with arrangements for a big Loyalty Day rally Friday afternoon, with an address by Mrs. Peron as the chief attraction.

The newspaper La Opinion reported that Interior Minister Angel F. Robledo told military leaders that the return to office of Juan D. Peron's 44-year-old widow would open a dynamic new phase of her regime, perhaps with key cabinet changes.

It was an obvious attempt to answer criticism of her failure during her 15½ months in office to make any progress toward restoring law and order or improving the gravely ill economy.

But La Opinion also said Mrs. Peron may take another health leave, this time in Spain, where she and Peron lived in exile and where their former bodyguard and closest adviser, Jose Lopez Rega, is now living.

Two Peronist provincial governors warned that a military coup was still possible.

Mrs. Peron returned to Buenos Aires Wednesday afternoon after a 32-day "rest for health reasons" at an air force rest camp in Cordoba province, 450 miles northwest of Buenos Aires.

She was greeted at the airport by the acting president, who is president of the Senate, and members of the cabinet. She went from the airport to her suburban home without breaking the official silence she has maintained since leaving office Sept. 13.

In preparation for the rally Friday, the walls of buildings throughout Buenos Aires were decorated with colorful posters, one showing the president's smiling face superimposed on shouting masses of workers, and another in which she was flanked by cloud-like images of Peron and his late second wife.

CONCERT AT LMC LIBRARY

Norwegians Celebrating Sunday

The Vennskap lodge of the Sons of Norway in cooperation with Lake Michigan college will present a public concert of Norwegian music Sunday at 3 p.m. in the LMC library.

The concert is part of an area celebration of the 150th anniversary of the beginning of Norwegian settlement in the United States, according to Bjorn Heyning, chairman of the Vennskap lodge.

As part of the year-long celebration nationally, King Olaf V of Norway is visiting this country and will be in Chicago Thursday and Friday.

Performers for the local concert Sunday will be soprano Rae Constantine Holman, violinist LeRoy Peterson and pianist Hans-Jorgen Holman.

The three musicians have just returned from a two-month concert tour in western Europe including 26 performances from Norway to Austria.

Rae Holman has sung with the Robert Shaw and Roger Wagner chorales and has appeared in solo recitals, radio broadcasts and television programs in the United States, Austria, Germany, Denmark, Norway and Canada.

She is a graduate of Kingsway college, Ontario, holds a bachelor's and master's degrees in voice from Andrews university and has done postgraduate work at Michigan State university and the Vienna Musikakademie. She is teaching in the Berrien Springs public schools.

Hans-Jorgen Holman, is professor of musicology and teaches piano and harpsichord at Andrews university. Since 1968 he has been director of the American summer sessions for music in Vienna.

He attended the University of Oslo and Oslo Conservatory. Holds a bachelor's degree from Columbia Union college, a master's from Catholic university and a Ph.D. from Indiana university.

Peterson is an assistant professor of violin and director of the Chamber Players at Andrews. He has appeared as a soloist with the National Symphony orchestra in Washington, D.C. and the Baltimore Symphony.

He has performed throughout the United States and in Canada, Europe and the Far East and also has appeared on radio and television.

He is a graduate of Columbia Union college and holds a master's degree and the artist's diploma from Peabody Conservatory.

Sunday's concert will be open to the public free of charge although donations will be accepted to help defray costs. Ample parking within walking distance of the library is available on the LMC campus, 2755 East Napier.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Area Residents Report 7 Thefts

Seven complaints of larceny were filed Wednesday with Twin City area police. Thefts were reported from four vehicles and three residences.

Two thefts were investigated Wednesday by Benton township police. Chuck Carpenter, a driver for Royal Crown Cola bottlers, told police a tool box with tools, valued at $200, was taken from a company truck parked on Highland avenue. Lila Griffin, 697 Thresher avenue, Benton Harbor, said a citizens' band radio was stolen from her car parked in a lot in the 1100 block of East Main street.

Robert Flynn, 6259 Jackson street, Nugar township, reported to Berrien sheriff's deputies Wednesday the theft of a television, record and tape player and small calculator, all valued at about $400, from his home.

Thefts reported to Benton Harbor police Wednesday were:

—A citizens' band radio, two radio speakers and a flashlight, all valued at $390, from the truck of James Rose, route 2, Coloma, parked in a city parking lot.

—A tape player and citizens' band radio, valued at $240, from the van of Tom Smith, 503 Sherwood, Three Oaks, parked in the Benton Harbor high school parking lot.

—Clothing, a gold ring and watch, all valued at $175, from the room of George Cole, Milner Hotel.

—A .38 caliber revolver and shells, valued at $70, from the residence of Lela Cook, 437 Cedar street.

Myron Jones, 48, Detroit, was arrested Wednesday by state police of the Benton Harbor post on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. He was booked at the Berrien county jail after his car was stopped on I-94 in Benton township about 11:10 p.m. A .38 caliber revolver was confiscated.

Agents To Hear Stockman

David A. Stockman, former executive director of the U.S. House of Representatives Republican caucus, will speak to the Southwestern Michigan Life Underwriters association Friday at noon at the Benton Harbor Holiday Inn. Stockman currently is considering challenging U.S. Rep. Edward Hutchinson of St. Joseph for in the Republican primary election next year.

Four Will Seek Bridgman Seats

BRIDGMAN — Four candidates filed nominating petitions for three Bridgman city commission posts before yesterday's deadline, according to Mrs. Phyllis Weber, city clerk.

Mrs. Weber said the candidates filing for the posts in the November election, all political newcomers, were Mrs. Terry (Marilyn) Stanard, Karen Courtt, Jim A. Catania 9540 Mathieu street, Dominic D'Agostino Jr., Monogram hotel, Lake street, and James A. Bembek, 3367 Pearl street.

The four will be vying for posts currently held by commissioners Otha McIntosh and Bruno Sygielski, and a third post formerly held by William Kidd. McIntosh and Sygielski had both announced previously they would not seek re-election, while Kidd resigned his post recently when he moved from the city to Lake township.

Mrs. Weber said that two women, one an incumbent, filed petitions for two library posts.

Unopposed in the election will be incumbent library board member Mrs. Charles (Josephine Pully) Gilmore, Baldwin road, and Mrs. Douglas (Nancy) Deisler, Power street.

Auction Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Jewelry owned by the late Geraldine Rockefeller Dodge has set a new auction record for a single collection, including a record for rubies.

The jewelry fetched a total of $2.34 million Wednesday at Sotheby Parke Bernet, topping the auction house's expected high of $1.46 million. A 26.6 carat diamond brought $475,000. Mrs. Dodge's rubies fetched a total of $693,000. One ruby brooch brought $330,000.

Youngsters Offer To Rake Leaves Free At Homes Of Senior Citizens

The Young Lions want to help clean up Benton Harbor — for free. The group of youngsters 9-13 years of age will rake leaves without charge Saturday for any senior citizens in the Benton Harbor area. Any senior citizens wishing to have their leaves raked should contact the group's leader, Mrs. Annie Robinson, at 925-5919 before 4 p.m. Friday.

Three Get Top Band Rating At Festival

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau
NILES — Three area high school marching bands received top ratings in the Southwestern Michigan Band and Orchestra association festival held here last night.

The festival in Niles was staged for marching bands from class D and B schools, while bands from class C and A schools performed at St. Joseph.

The only class D school to receive a top rating was the Gobles high school band, directed by Gerald Reed.

Bands from Buchanan and Brandywine received the top ratings among class B schools. Other class D schools participating in the festival, all receiving division two ratings were Lawton, Marcellus and Lawrence.

Other Class B bands participating, all receiving division two ratings were Dowagiac, River Valley, Coloma and Paw Paw.

Jay Crouch, Brandywine middle school band director and president of SWMBOA's district that includes Berrien, Cass, Van Buren and St. Joseph counties, said that the bands did not compete against one another, but rather performed for ratings from judges.

The rating scale runs from 1 to 5, with 1 being the top rating, Crouch said.

Niles high school, host of the festival here, was the only AA class band to perform. Crouch said the Niles band presented its program for judges' comments only, and not for a rating.

Judges were James Shaw, Vicksburg; Richard Swinick, Kalamazoo; and Robert Bower, Grandville. Walter Cole of St. Johns was the inspection judge.

DIFFICULT VIEW: River Valley high school marching band bass drum player Eric Lee peers over drum to watch another band perform. River Valley band was in grandstand at Niles high school last night, awaiting its chance to perform.

LAST MINUTE ADJUSTMENT: Tom Stansifer, Dowagiac high school marching band director, adjusts cap of band member prior to unit's inspection at band festival in Niles last night.

Slash Due In 10 Days

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken says he will issue an executive order within ten days directing where millions of dollars of budget cuts must be made to operate state government without a deficit. Milliken would not estimate even in round figures how much the budget cuts will be. Some legislators and sources close to the budget cutting process indicate about $100 million will have to be shaved from the already-whittled state budget. There will be "no easing of the pressure" brought by a sluggish economy for a year to 18 months, Milliken said Tuesday in an interview in his office. Milliken said he expects Michigan's colleges and universities to suffer further budget cuts but insisted the schools' share of the burden will be "proportional" with other state agencies and departments.

Three Bills Stalled

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate has delayed action on a trio of controversial bills which were defeated the first time around last summer. Disappointing scores of women in the gallery — who came to lobby both for and against the bill — the Senate put off until Oct. 28 debate on a bill to permit the teaching of birth control in sex education classes. The issue has sparked emotional and sometimes bitter debate between liberal and conservative women's groups. The Senate delayed until Nov. 4 work on two other measures — one which would increase the loan ceiling and interest rates on small loans, and the other which would permit college campuses to obtain beer and wine licenses.

Grant Will Close 76 Outlets In Michigan, Georgia

NEW YORK (AP) — The W.T. Grant Co., fighting for survival, said Wednesday it plans to close more stores in Michigan and Georgia and shut others earlier than previously announced.

At a meeting of creditors, Grant's attorney confirmed reports that the New York-based retailer planned to close 76 stores in Georgia and Michigan, in addition to the 201 closings announced last week.

There was some confusion about the announcement though, since Grant only has 39 stores in Michigan and 33 in Georgia, for a total of 72. Grant President Robert Anderson said later that announcements of further closings "would come within the next 48 hours."

Anderson also said Grant would close all of the stores in the previously announced list by Nov. 30, or within the next three to five weeks.

Last week Grant said some of these stores would stay open through the Christmas season.

On Oct. 2, after losses of more than $288 million in the past 18 months, Grant filed for court protection from creditors under the nation's bankruptcy laws. It is the largest retail bankruptcy ever.

"If we don't take quick action in the next 60 to 90 days, I don't think it will be possible to reorganize this company," Grant's attorney, Leonard Rosen, told the more than 1,000 creditors at Wednesday's meeting.

"Grant is willing and wants to sit down and work out ways to protect the interests of its trade creditors, but only consistent with the survival of Grant," he said.

Some of the creditors at the meeting, which is required under bankruptcy law, were doubtful Grant could get the cooperation of creditors necessary to pull the firm through. The company has listed liabilities of more than $1 billion.

"What's important is their cash flow projection, which they haven't given us yet," said one supplier, who said he had stopped dealing with Grant.

"No one knows their status under the bankruptcy law," said another vendor. "It's a lawyer's dream."

SATURDAY SMC Club Sponsors Harvesting Contest

DOWAGIAC — The Southwestern Michigan college agriculture club will hold a corn harvesting and husking contest for area high school agriculture students on Saturday, Oct. 18, at 10:30 a.m. in a field at the corner of Cherry Grove and Matthews roads.

Contestants will husk and harvest standing corn two rows at a time and throw the ears into a wagon adjacent to the rows being picked, according to a college spokesman.

Competition will be based on the gross weight harvested and on time. Winners will be awarded trophies and prizes donated by more than 20 area merchants.

Husks left on the corn and ears left in the field will be deducted from each contestant's score.

Primarily for high school students, there will also be a category for parents, high school agriculture instructors and SMC students.

In case of rain, the contest will be conducted on Saturday, Oct. 25 at the same time.

Watergate Ends; Some Mysteries Left

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite intensive investigations, the special Watergate prosecutors never were able to crack some of the scandal's most celebrated mysteries, such as who intentionally erased 18½ minutes in one of Richard M. Nixon's White House tape recordings. Another of the unsolved mysteries surrounded the handling of a $100,000 campaign contribution funneled from industrialist Howard Hughes to Nixon's best friend, Charles C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

And in its final report Wednesday, the Watergate prosecution force shed no new light on why the original burglary at the Watergate offices of the Democratic party was undertaken. It did not even address the question.
The Watergate prosecution report said Nixon escaped indictment for Watergate crimes because of murkiness in the Constitution. The report said a constitutional amendment should clarify whether an incumbent president can be indicted.

"The worst time to answer such questions is when they arise," the report said. "Perhaps the best time is the present, while the memory of relevant events is fresh."
The report, submitted to Congress and the public by outgoing Special Prosecutor Henry S. Ruth Jr., contained few surprises and described its own recommendations as "modest."

More than 50 individuals and some 20 corporations were convicted during the 28 months covered by the report. Those cases included the Watergate cover-up and plumbers, individual and corporate campaign contributors including the giant Associated Milk Producers, Inc., and the "sale" of an ambassadorship in return for campaign contributions. A recurring theme in the report was the agonizing among the prosecutors over whether to seek Nixon's indictment for the cover-up.

In the end, Ruth's predecessor, Leon M. Jaworski, turned his evidence over to the House Judiciary Committee, which recommended impeachment. Nixon resigned before the issue came to the full House.
In 154 pages and a 123-page appendix, the report detailed the methods, successes and failures of the prosecutors. It defended widespread plea bargaining as hastening the investigative process, while admitting the practice "tends under some conditions to produce unfair results."
It called Watergate "an insidious climax" to practices long unchallenged by branches of government, the public and the press.

"Democracies do not survive unless elected officials do what they are supposed to do and citizens maintain vigilance to see that they do," the report said.
"Nothing can replace that kind of vigilance; and recommendations for new laws or new institutions are insignificant when compared to the stubborn plodding, daily work of Americans and their elected representatives in watching over and channeling the power of their national government, the power of concentrated wealth, the power of officially spoken and written words and the power of secret bureaucracies."

Ruth Leaves Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Watergate Prosecutor Henry S. Ruth leaves office today after issuing the final report from the 28-month investigation of a scandal that forced Richard M. Nixon to resign the presidency. Ruth turns over the job to Charles Ruff, who will handle it on a part-time basis while continuing to teach three courses at the Georgetown University law school. Ruff, 36, becomes the fourth and probably the last Watergate prosecutor and will direct the remaining investigations and handle appeals pending from the major trials and convictions.

POETRY LOVERS PAY TRIBUTE AT YESENIN'S GRAVE

Young Russians Idolize Poets

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — The crowd pushed hard to get close to Sergei Yesenin's grave. Teen-age boys perched in trees to get a better look, and old women listened raptly as a young man recited from memory the verses of Yesenin, a young lyric poet who killed himself in 1925.

It was the 80th anniversary of Yesenin's birth, and hundreds of people streamed to Moscow's Vagankovskoye Cemetery throughout the day to lay fresh flowers, recite his poetry or simply stand silently in tribute before his simple grave. When Yesenin, the former husband of the late American dancer, Isadora Duncan, slashed his wrists, dozens of grief-stricken adores across the country followed his example. A young woman named Galya hanged herself on a tree near his grave. The tree still stands.

The Soviets' love of poetry and the men and women who write it is a striking phenomenon in a country which was largely illiterate less than 60 years ago. New editions of poems by Yesenin, Alexander Pushkin, Vladimir Mayakovsky and Mikhail Lermontov — the most popular of the older Russian poets — are sold out within hours after they're put on bookstore shelves.

Those poets, particularly Pushkin, who died in a duel in 1837, are idolized by young and old alike, and practically every educated Russian can recite some of their poetry by heart. The best-known contemporary poets, such as Yevgeny Yevtushenko and Andrei Voznesensky, are treated like rock music stars by the young, and swarms of high school and college students flock to their infrequent poetry readings.

The Soviets are also fond of a wide range of Western poetry, from Sir Walter Scott to Robert Burns to the U.S. black poet Langston Hughes. They patiently stand in line whenever works by these poets become available — a rare event. For the Soviet people, poetry "is not entertainment but a living necessity," says Vasily Betaki, a Leningrad poet who emigrated to the West in 1973. "Poetry is read, learned by heart and sung to guitars."

"Russia is the only place where poetry is really important," the late poet Osip Mandelstam once wrote. "They kill people for it here."

Mandelstam points up the irony of the fact that throughout the nation's history, the poets most loved by the people generally have been disliked and feared by the authorities. Mandelstam himself died in a Stalinist labor camp in the late 1930s. Last year, a limited edition of his collected poems, which appeared without advance word, was gone within hours.

The greatly beloved Pushkin, a free spirit who was persecuted by Czar Nicholas I because of his antiestablishment writings, probably would be harassed by Soviet authorities if he lived today and pursued the same themes.

Former Berrien Man Heads State Society

GRAND RAPIDS — Dr. Joseph A. Sentkeresty, a former Bridgman-Sawyer area resident who is now a practicing physician in Grand Rapids, has been installed as president of the Michigan Society of Internal Medicine.

A graduate of Bridgman high school in 1952, Dr. Sentkeresty took his pre-medical studies at Hope college and graduated from the University of Michigan Medical school in 1958.

In Grand Rapids, he is a specialist in internal medicine and is chief of Blodgett hospital's coronary care unit.

He is the son of Mrs. Joseph (Mary) Sentkeresty of Sawyer. Mrs. Sentkeresty and her late husband were owners of the Blackstone Food store.

Heart Pump Implant Tests Okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a major step toward the use of artificial hearts, the government has approved the first human experiments using a mechanical device to help out the heart's main pumping chamber.

The National Heart and Lung Institute (NHLI) said approval of human clinical trials marks a significant milestone toward the goal of artificial heart implants.

since the sophisticated pumps operate on the same principle to circulate the blood.

The experiments are aimed at fighting heart disease, the nation's No. 1 killer. If successful, the pumps could be life savers for many patients entering the critical recovery period after surgery, and perhaps for high-risk coronary occlusion patients before permanent damage is inflicted, specialists said.

The Texas Heart Institute in Houston and the Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston have been given approval to implant the blood pumps, called left ventricular assist devices (LVAD), in selected patients who have difficulty in being weaned from heart and lung machines after cardiac surgery.

About 50,000 open-heart operations were performed last year, half of them coronary arttery bypass procedures with a mortality rate of between 2 and 8 per cent. Many others involved heart valve replacements with an even higher risk factor.

Two types of LVADs made by Thermo Electron Corp. of Waltham, Mass., will be used in the tests. They are stainless steel cylinders about four inches long with a polyurethane bladder inside. One contains an inner surface with polyester fibers which react with blood to form fibrous or scar tissue compatible with blood flowing through it.

THREATEN STRIKE

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Australia's union chief today threatened a general strike if the conservatives carry out their threat to veto the Labor government's budget.

Galien Teachers, Board Ratify One-Year Contract

GALIEN — A one-year teacher contract has been ratified by the Galien school board and the Galien Education association, according to an announcement made by Dr. Robert Tilmann, superintendent, and the GEA.

The new contract calls for $150 to be added to each step of the teachers' salary scale.

The contract was ratified at a special board meeting on Oct. 8. Negotiators for the 42-member association ratified the contract at the conclusion of an Oct. 8 negotiating session.

The contract also calls for a five per cent retirement fund payment to be made by the school district for each teacher rather than from the teachers' salaries.

Salary increases will be retroactive to the beginning of the year. Insurance and retirement benefits take effect after ratification, said Tilmann.

The new scale calls for a salary for teachers with bachelor degrees ranging from $8,450 to $12,100 in 13 steps. For teachers with master's degrees, the salary will range from $9,150 to $13,925 in 14 steps.

LIFE SENTENCE

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Billy Glenn Isley of Detroit, convicted of first-degree murder in the "die, Satan, die" slaying of a Virginia man, has been sentenced to life in prison. Isley was charged in last March's Tampa murder of Kenneth Houston of Arlington, Va.

Hagar Township Seeking More Auxiliary Firemen

Acting Hagar Township Fire Chief Wayne Prescott has said more men are needed for the fire department's auxiliary force to respond to daytime fires.

Prescott, named acting chief recently, said the department is short-handed for fighting fires during the daytime hours in the township and has called for township men interested in joining the auxiliary force to contact him.

According to Prescott, the department presently has only one man available for daytime fire calls, with regular members of the force arriving at the fire scene when possible.

Prescott reported members of the auxiliary force are paid $5 for the first hour at the scene of a fire and $4 for each hour thereafter.

Prescott can be contacted at his home, 6031 Erie street, Lake Michigan Beach.

It Was A Good Week For ABC

By JAY SHARBUIT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Last week's Nielsen brought great news to ABC. Not only were seven ABC shows among the nation's 20 highest-rated evening programs, the network also was No. 1 in the week's ratings averages.

It was the first time this had happened in the new television season for ABC, traditionally No. 3 in the weekly ratings averages.

CBS, traditionally the front-runner in those averages the past 20 years, slipped to an unusual third place last week, but remained No. 1 in the over-all weekly averages logged in the first five weeks of the new season.

The gospel according to A.C. Nielsen Co., while heartening to ABC, still had some bad news for the Saturday night variety show ABC sportscaster Howard Cosell hosts live from Fun City.

During ABC's Monday night football game this week, Cosell was heard to remark that he felt his much-publicized variety show finally had "turned the corner." It had, but right onto a downward slope.

It posted its weakest rating in the four weeks it has been on the air and got a measly 18 per cent share of the estimated audience.

Well, at least ABC says it'll stick with the show for 20 weeks.

No such luck for CBS' "Big Eddie," a new, low-rated Friday night situation comedy that has been getting regularly clobbered along with ABC's "Mobile One" by NBC's top-rated "Sanford and Son."

CBS says it is axing Eddie after Nov. 14 and filling his time slot until mid-season with special programs it will announce later.

The cancellation puts yet another hole in the new season's controversial "family viewing" period of little sex and reduced violence.

Of six new shows axed so far this season, five are "family hour" entries — NBC's "Montefusco," "Fay," "Family Holvak" and "Invisible Man" series and now, CBS' "Big Eddie."

The sixth, CBS' "Kate

McShane," started well after the family hour.

Whether new family hour shows will continue to lead the cancellation parade in coming weeks, as predicted in some quarters in Hollywood, remains to be seen.

Joint Democratic Meeting

DECATUR — The Van Buren county and Fourth Congressional district Democratic committees will jointly sponsor a meeting in the Decatur Township hall Wednesday, Oct. 22 at 8 p.m. Special guest will be Helen Root, Democratic national committee member, who will discuss the affirmative action plan adopted by the Michigan Democratic state central committee. Also on the agenda, announced by Van Buren Chairman, Leah Bennison, will be details of a November dinner honoring retiring U.S. Sen. Philip Hart, and the Van Buren auction planned for Dec. 6. The public may attend.

Inflation, Recession Strain Budgets Of All Big Cities

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Inflation and recession have brought city budgets to the breaking point, according to municipal officials who say they are faced with an increased demand for costly services at the same time their income is declining.

"The cost of maintaining basic services has become so high that it is slowly strangling urban America," said Mayor Kenneth Gibson of Newark, N.J. "The financial troubles of New York City are mirrored on a smaller scale in other urban the General Services Administration. "Consequently we ended up with a $1.4 to $1.5 million deficit that affected last year. I lowered the anticipated percentage of collections to what we thought we could get and we had to raise taxes substantially. And I had to set the layoff of 500 city employees." Panuzio did not lay off any police or firemen. "They renegotiated their contract. They gave up holidays and time and a-half for overtime and other things that gave us enough savings to avoid laying any of them off."

As he fired other workers, the mayor was forced to budget more money for the city-run unemployment compensation program. But Bridgeport's contracts with its employees do not include severance provisions, so if any of the employees eventually have to be fired it will be cheaper to fire them and pay compensation than it to keep them on and pay salaries.

Other cities face different problems. John Gunther, executive director of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, said that in Detroit, for example, firing a policeman with five years experience can cost the city $15,000 in severance pay. Thus far, Mayor Coleman Young has managed to cut the city payroll by $5,000 through attrition and temporary layoffs, avoiding the severance problem. If he has to start actual firings, he says, it will involve a considerable amount of money.

Young has taken other steps to save money. "We have shut down recreation centers... We have closed immunization clinics... and even cut back on an innovative law enforcement program designed to reach out to people for help in the fight against crime."

The Democratic mayor also is asking the state legislature to allow Detroit to raise the nonresident or commuter income tax from one-half to one per cent. City residents pay 2 per cent.

A key element for many cities is the amount of taxable property that will produce revenue. A new law in Minneapolis is designed to split all new revenues between the inner cities and the suburbs, but most other urban areas are forced to rely on downtown assessments only.

Robert Holschauer, an economist formerly with the Brookings Institution, said cities used to be able to count on a steady annual increase of 8 or 9 per cent in property tax revenues as the value of existing property went up. This isn't happening any more.

A 1973 study by the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations showed that from 1969 to 1970, the latest years for which complete figures were available, the assessed valuation of property in New York went up only 3 per cent. In Cleveland, Buffalo, N.Y. and St. Louis, the figure was less than 1 per cent. In contrast, the assessed valuation of property in Dallas — typical of newer, Southwestern cities with relatively low unemployment and expanding economies — the assessed valuation went up about 26 per cent.

Dick Glauman, an aide to Mayor Henry Maier of Milwaukee, said assessed valuation in the city went up only 1 per cent last year. The city's costs went up 10 per cent.

Glauman said Milwaukee is in relatively good financial shape compared to other northern cities, but he also said the city will have to borrow for capital improvements instead of using cash as it did in the past and warned that some projects might have to be delayed.

Newark's Mayor Gibson said the rate of property tax collection has remained steady at about 85 to 90 per cent, but the amount of assessed valuation has declined. In addition, he said, 60 per cent of Newark's land area is tax exempt because it is occupied by educational or church buildings or by the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.

Cleveland has about $198 million outstanding in bond anticipation notes, city IOUs sold to investors on the promise that they would be paid off when a long-term bond is issued. The anticipation notes are not backed by city taxes or revenues.

Some $1.5-million of the Cleveland notes are due next month. City spokesmen say they have enough money to cover the payments, and they say the current city budget is balanced.

Nonetheless, the city is high on the list of urban areas with severe financial problems. One reason is repeated voter refusal to approve an increase in the income tax, now at 1 per cent — the lowest of all big cities in the state.

KENNETH GIBSON

In an effort to cut expenses, the city is trying to work out a regional approach to some services. Cleveland sold its sewer system to a regional sewer authority in 1972 and relinquished its only city-run hospital to the country more than a decade ago.

Urban officials say they have two immediate concerns: the possible impact of a default by New York City and the renewal of federal revenue sharing.

A default by New York City would make it even more difficult for big cities to borrow money for long-term improvements. A failure to renew revenue sharing could mean cuts in day-to-day operations.

The aid program does not expire until Dec. 31, 1978, but officials say action is needed soon so that cities can plan future budgets.

Mayor John Puelker of St. Louis told a congressional subcommittee: "If reenactment is postponed until after May 15, Congress will have to bear the full responsibility for the budgetary havoc that will result."

RICHARD DALEY

at the local level, have that can only be resolved by raising taxes or decreasing services."

Puelker, a Democrat, said his city "temporarily deferred a major financial problem until next year, but only because our city employees were impressed with my argument that there was just no money. They agreed to go without any pay raise in the fiscal year that began May 1, 1975. We cannot expect them to stand by for another year without any increase." The current problems in New York

ABRAHAM BEAME
New York City

FRANK RIZZO
Philadelphia

City and the resulting difficulty some cities are having in floating bonds could have a side effect in fiscal management techniques.

"Because of the current municipal bond market conditions, local governments are facing the necessity to consider pay-as-you-go financing in whole or part for capital purposes heretofore funded by loans," said Mayor William D. Schaefer of Baltimore.

MOON LANDRIEU
New Orleans

New York City Isn't Alone

EDITOR'S NOTE: New York City isn't alone. To one degree or another, all cities are faced with growing troubles in meeting the cost of maintaining basic services. Associated Press writers Louise Cook, Lee Milgrom and Michael Sniffen examine some of these problems in the second part of their three-part series on "Cities in Crisis."

areas, particularly in the older regions of the country where industry and people have fled to the suburbs, taking their taxes with them.

"The problem perpetuates itself," said Gibson, a Democrat. "The higher we are forced to raise taxes to provide basic services, the more businesses and homeowners are forced to leave. This means fewer jobs, greater demands on city services and fewer ratables (tax-producing properties) to provide them. If we were to cut down on the delivery of services, the result would be the same. More businesses and homeowners would be forced to leave."

It doesn't take long for a city to get into trouble, Bridgeport Conn., was doing fine in the early 1970s. There were budget surpluses and two tax decreases. Then came the recession.

Red Sox Break Cincinnati's Home Field Edge

Tiant Magic Evens World Series

CINCINNATI (AP) — The magic of the Cincinnati Reds at Riverfront Stadium is nothing compared to the magic of Luis Tiant.

The tricky Boston right-hander broke Cincinnati's home field spell with some slight of hand Wednesday night and made the Reds disappear in the fourth game of the World Series.

Squirring out of more jams than a Houdini, Tiant tamed the Reds 5-4 with a remarkably courageous performance and led the buoyant Red Sox into a 2-2 tie in the best-of-seven Series.

"The man has done the job all year long," said Boston Manager Darrell Johnson, who will start Reggie Cleveland against Cincinnati's Don Gullett in Game 5 tonight. "He was out there at the end tonight, and he did the job again."

The Reds have been almost impossible to beat at home this year. They had a 67-17 record before Wednesday night's game. At first, it looked like they were going to continue their dramatic domination at Riverfront against Tiant.

Boston's star pitcher, who had shut out Cincinnati at Fenway

Park in the Series opener last Saturday, was obviously not himself with only three days' rest. The Reds gave the roaring Riverfront fans a lift with two quick runs off the chunky right-hander in the first inning.

"My breaking ball was not as good as it was in Boston," Tiant, stroking his famous Fu Manchu mustache, told the press later. "I used my fastball more tonight. Also, the mound is higher here than in Fenway Park. That bothered my control."

But the sudden Cincinnati thunder didn't take the heart out of Tiant. If anything, he pitched with more heart as the pulsating game wore on.

Down 2-0 in the first, Boston didn't stay that way for long. The Sox routed Cincinnati left-hander Fred Norman with a five-run fourth — and suddenly the Red Sox and their ancient right-hander had a 5-2 lead.

Tiant was still struggling, though. In the Reds' half of the fourth, he gave up two runs.

Johnson said, however, that he had no intention of taking his best pitcher out of the game.

Luis did seem to have a breakdown with the mound a couple of times," Johnson said. "But it took a couple of hitters for him to straighten himself out and he was on his way again."

Magically, Tiant worked out of the jam in the fourth. The right-hander also had nervous times in the fifth, gave up hits in the sixth and eighth and then found himself in big trouble in the ninth.

Tiant gave up a leadoff single to Cesar Geronimo and then a sacrifice bunt to Ed Armbrister that moved the potential tying run into scoring position.

Working with extreme care to the dangerous Pete Rose, Tiant walked him to put men on first and second with one out. Then Ken Griffey hit one of Tiant's pitches way back in center field and sleek Fred Lynn raced back to make a stunning catch over his head.

Then Tiant faced Joe Morgan, the Cincinnati sparkplug who was the Reds' hero Tuesday night, and got him on a harmless popup to Carl Yastrzemski at first. That did it, and Tiant's joyous teammates swamped him, pounding his back and hugging the extraordinary Cuban who made 163 pitches in nine tireless innings.

"It was a great effort on his part," said Fisk. "It was a tough situation to walk out of alive. He was really aggressive out there tonight."

Tiant worked his wonderful magic in a splendid World Series setting. The game had everything. Yastrzemski, the Boston captain, said, "It was one helluva game," the winner's smile painted on his face in broad brush strokes. "You didn't know until the last out who was going to win. And that's the way a World Series game should be played."

Doubles by Griffey and Johnny Bench in the first inning produced two Cincinnati runs before the Red Sox came back with their game-breaking inning in the fourth. Dwight Evans tripled home two runs to tie the game and Rick Burleson, a defensive giant all Series, doubled home another to give the Red Sox their go-ahead run.

Then they wrapped it up as a fourth run scored with the help of an infield error and a fifth on Yastrzemski's single. That made it 5-2 Boston before the never-say-die Reds came back in their half of the inning on run-scoring hits by Dave Concepcion and Geronimo.

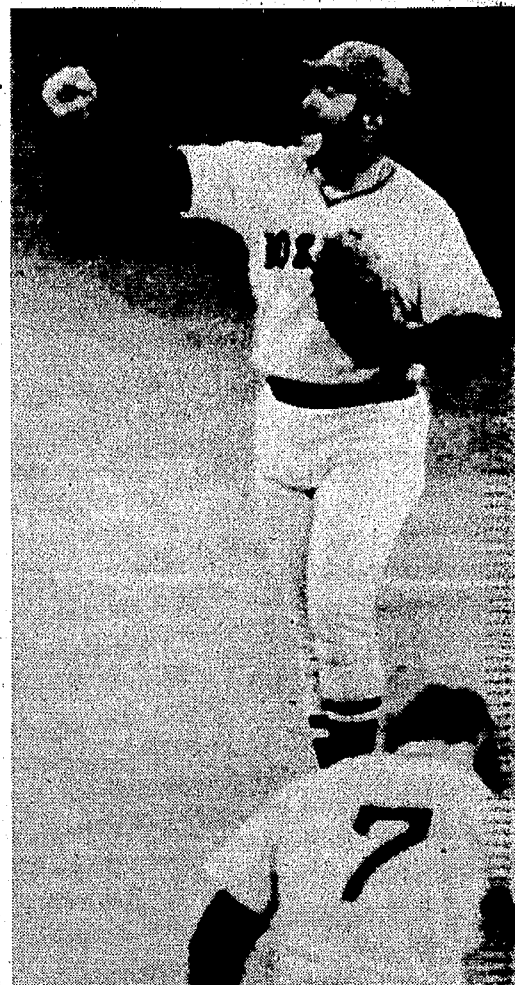

The Red Sox victory insured that the series will go back to Boston for at least a sixth game on Saturday.

"We've earned some respect from the Reds, I think," said catcher Carlton Fisk.

And now the Red Sox have a good chance to earn a World Series.

Win Crucial For Boston

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Boston Red Sox, their old confidence restored by the clutch pitching of ageless Luis Tiant, think they're back in the driver's seat in their World Series showdown with the mighty Cincinnati Reds.

Angered and frustrated at the victims of a controversial umpiring call in a 10-inning loss in the third game, the Red Sox bounced back to defeat the Reds 5-4 Wednesday night, evening the best-of-seven Series at two games apiece.

The Red Sox weren't running around making predictions, but they were their old confident selves in the clubhouse. The combination of that, Cincinnati's failure to play up to regular season form and the sixth and seventh games scheduled for Boston could spell big trouble for the Reds.

"This win tonight was a big one, a mighty big one," Manager Darrell Johnson said after Tiant threw 163 pitches in hanging on for the fourth game victory. "It means we'll definitely get a shot at them on our home grounds."

Down 2-1 in the Series, the Red Sox knew they had to win behind Tiant or face the spectre of elimination in the fifth game tonight at Riverfront Stadium.

"We just had to get that one tonight," said Dwight Evans, who had a two-run triple which tied the score 2-2 in Boston's five-run fourth inning.

"We were up," the Boston right fielder said. "We all knew we got beaten by the umpire Tuesday night when he didn't call interference on the bunt in the 10th inning. However, we forgot about that and went out and played hard."

Tiant, an 18-game winner who beat Oakland in the American League playoff and then shut out Cincinnati last Saturday, made the Perils of Pauline look like child's play. He went the route in what Carl Yastrzemski called "one of the most courageous performances I've ever seen."

Johnson had planned to pitch southpaw Bill Lee tonight in the event that Tiant had lost. However, he changed his mind quickly, naming Reggie Cleveland to pitch the final baseball game this year in Cincinnati.

"I have a hunch that Cleveland may do better on this artificial surface," Johnson said. "I don't think Bill Lee is ready to pitch here. As a sinker ball pitcher, I think he will be much more effective in Boston on the natural turf Saturday."

Asked who his pitcher would be in the seventh game Sunday, if needed, Johnson broke into a wide grin and quipped: "Guess."

Tiant, winner of seven of his last eight games, asked if he would be ready Sunday.

"Better believe it," was his quick reply.

Cincy's Power Out?

Reds Averaging Meek .212

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's Big Red Machine is suffering from a power shortage.

"This is not the team I know," lamented Joe Morgan after Luis Tiant short-circuited the National League champions Wednesday night for the second time, evening the World Series at 2-2, with a gutsy 5-4 victory.

The Reds, who romped to a 20-game victory margin in the NL West, then stormed past potent Pittsburgh in three straight playoff games, have an acute case of slumbering bats.

Fearful as one of baseball's most awesome offenses in years, the Big Red Machine has lurched to a slow start, averaging a meek .212 against Boston in World Series play.

"You have to attribute some of it to their pitching staff," said Morgan. He may have meant Tiant, the balding battler who has taunted the Reds with his tantalizing assortment of slow, slow and slower stuff.

"I didn't think he would beat us," said Morgan, whom Tiant coaxed into to a game-ending popup after the Reds mounted a ninth-inning threat, putting runners at second and first.

"Even as the game went on I was waiting for us to explode. He's something when he has to be," said Morgan, who led the Reds during the regular season with a .323 mark but has only three hits in four games for a sickly .214.

"We made mistakes again and you can't make mistakes against a good team," said the fiery all-star second baseman. The gloomiest of the Reds is slugger Tony Perez, the most prolific run producer in baseball over the past nine years, but a pathetic, slump-ridden figure in Series play.

Perez is 0-for-14, one of the worst slumps of his career.

"I'm trying everything," said Perez, who has suddenly gone cold after batting .417 in the playoff sweep of Pittsburgh.

"Louie's got me on my toes. I can't wait. I can't stay back on the motion," said the disconsolate Cuban, who added to his woes by bobbling a grounder that allowed a Boston run to score during a five-run bombardment in the fourth.

How good was Tiant?

Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson wasted no words. "All I can say is that Luis is doing all the talking for himself."

O'Neal Continues To Shine

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — University of Michigan linebacker Calvin O'Neal brought his season total of tackles up to 71 in last weekend's 16-6 victory over Michigan State.

O'Neal, regarded as one of the top linebackers in the Big Ten, had 15 tackles in the Michigan State game and is U of M's leading tackler.

O'Neal, a junior, attributes at least part of his success to the experience he gained in the linebacking spot two years ago playing on the practice field against one of the nation's leading running games.

"Trying to stop (teammates)...Ed Shuttlesworth, Chuck Heater, Dennis Franklin and Gordy Bell was a real challenge for me," O'Neal said.

This season he is considered a strong possibility for All-Big Ten first team honors.

Walt Frazier Now Best-Paid Knick

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A five-year National Basketball Association contract for slightly less than $2 million can do wonders. Just ask Walt Frazier of the New York Knicks of the National Basketball Association.

"I had a bad back until yesterday," Frazier said Wednesday before the Knicks played an exhibition game with the ABA Indiana Pacers. "But the contract made me better. Now I'm ready to play 62 games."

Frazier, a 30-year-old backcourt ace who played his college ball at Southern Illinois, said the new agreement not only helped his back but also his pocketbook.

"It's a lot of money, but I've also had problems of spending a lot," Frazier continued. "It gives me financial security for the rest of my life unless I'm an idiot."

Frazier declined to give the exact salary sum. He said, however, it was between $350,000 and $400,000 annually but slightly less than $2 million over five years.

The agreement reportedly makes Frazier the highest-paid player in the history of the Knicks.

"There are other guards that make the same that I do, I think," he said. "(Nate) Archibald (of KC-Omaha) and (Phil) Chenier (of Washington) do, supposedly. And I think (Kareem) Abdul-Jabbar is the highest paid."

Two years remained on Frazier's previous contract, which was for a reported $315,000 per year.

Explaining the reason he sought a new pact with the Knicks, Frazier said: "In this business they (club management) soon forget. I thought I had a good season last year. I wasn't sure they were going to negotiate but the only thing they can tell you is 'No.'"

The Knicks didn't say "no" and Frazier got a contract he said "made me a happy player and put my mind at ease."

Frazier said the extra money may have made him a marked man, however. "Now once the guys read about this — the more money you make the harder the games — because everybody starts shooting at you," he said. The 6-foot-4 guard, now in his seventh year with the Knicks and a participant in the last six All-Star games, said he expected to keep playing in the NBA at least five more years.

Contenders Watervliet, Hartford Clash Friday

Arrow Teams Trying To Catch Lakers

The last three weeks of the Red Arrow conference football season will seem like a game of tag for most of the schools.

Lake Michigan Catholic, at 4-0 in the league, will be "it" while Hartford, Watervliet and Berrien Springs, all 3-1, will be trying to do the catching.

This Friday, the number of second place clubs will be reduced by at least one as the Panthers and Indians square-off at Watervliet's field. The Shamrocks will be trying to keep pace as they host Gallien (1-3) and Bridgman (1-3) travels to Eau Claire (1-3). Saturday night will find the Lakers at New Buffalo (0-4).

Coach Bob Teske's big job at Hartford this week is to get his team thinking about this week's game and not about the shelling the Indians took from Catholic last week. "For us this week, it's a mental thing," said Teske. "Last week's game is just water over the dam."

"Two things that were big factors last week are the fact that most of the kids never had played in a game that big before or in front of such a big crowd," added Teske.

Although official attendance figures were unavailable, a few longtime fans said that it was the biggest crowd they had ever seen at a Hartford game.

The Indians only gained 95 yards rushing last week but they still remain as the second place squad in area team rushing with a 1,267 yards. The Lakers are first with 1,348 yards.

A big reason for Hartford's low total in the rushing department is injuries to Phil Mireles and Ken Lowe. Both were hurt in the first half and only gained 33 yards between them. Teske reports that both should be back for this week's game.

Watervliet has battled back in its last two games after being surprised by Berrien Springs 24-14 in the Panthers' third game of the season. Gallien and New Buffalo have fallen to Watervliet by a combined score of 70-0 in the last two weeks.

"Any success rests on a balanced team," said Panther head coach Jerry Barchett. "We've got no real strong suit."

Frank Gargano leads the team in rushing with 642 yards while Watervliet has amassed 1,150 yards on the ground to place them fourth in team rushing. The Panthers have won the last four games played between the two teams.

Two streaks will be on the line in the Laker-Bison contest. Catholic owns the area's longest winning streak at five games while New Buffalo has the area's longest losing streak at 14. In the six Red Arrow games played between the two schools, the Lakers have come out on top each time by a combined score of 160-33.

But the last two meetings have been tough wins for Lake Michigan. Last season it was a 12-7 win for the Lakers while in 1973, the Bisons only lost by a 19-14 score.

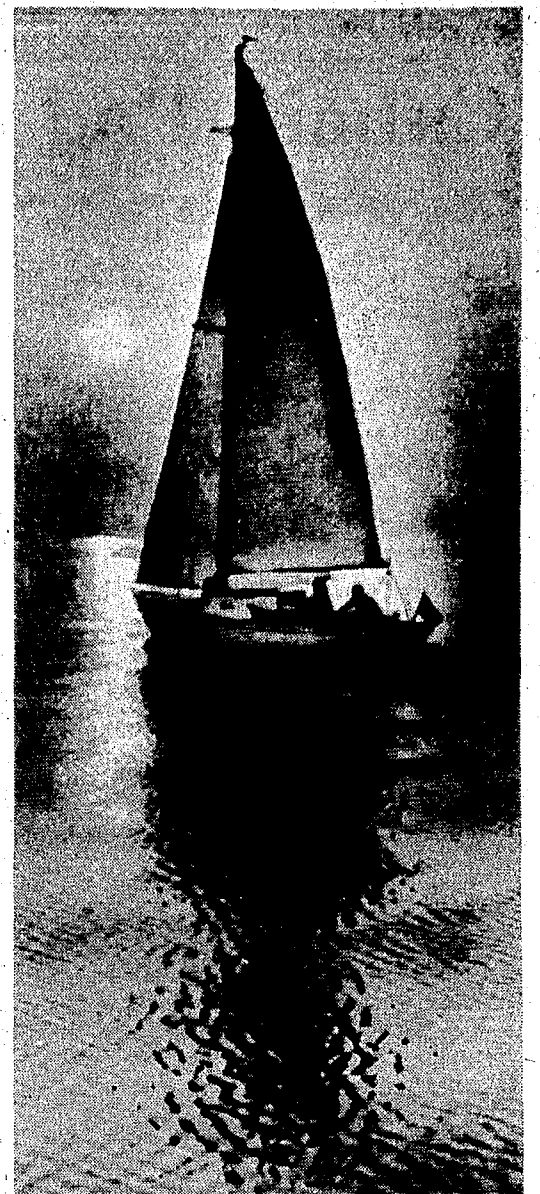

"We feel we have to go into the game with the same attitude that we had against Hartford," said Catholic head coach Terry Rose. "We let up two years ago and New Buffalo almost beat us on a rainy afternoon."

Lake Michigan goes into the game with the area's number one offense, having gained 1,806 yards. Mickey Ashbrook is the team's leading rusher with 810 yards on 116 carries, an average of almost seven yards per carry.

Rose reported that Mark Frazee, who was banged up in the Bridgman game two weeks ago, is still doubtful for this week. The Lakers haven't suffered too many injuries this season and Rose credits a good early season conditioning program and the stretching exercises they do at practice for the lack of injuries.

Berrien Springs just about beat Hartford in its first conference game and then downed Watervliet the next week and has been rolling ever since. "The game we played against Watervliet turned our season around," commented Shamrocks' head coach Al Bush.

One of the keys to their success is the defense. The Shamrocks have only given up 858 yards total offense in their five games. Berrien Springs has also gotten some good running from fullback Bob White and fullback Roger Johnson. White has gained at least 100 yards in each of the last four games and Johnson runs a good inside series, according to Bush.

BH Eyes Elusive First Win

Tiger Defense Key Against Mona Shores

Records continue to fall for Benton Harbor quarterback Mike Schulz. But the Tigers still have been unable to claim that first win of the season.

Benton Harbor, loser of five straight this year, will again be after that elusive first victory when it hosts Muskegon Mona Shores at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Filstrup Field.

Schulz, who likely will shatter every Tiger passing record in the books before he is through, set a Lake Michigan Athletic Conference passing mark last Friday against Grand Haven. The bulky 6-4, 222-pound senior completed 23 of 36 passes for 272 yards and six touchdowns in a bizarre 46-44, triple-overtime loss.

"If I can get Schulz to work with his receivers like he did last Friday," Benton Harbor coach Eugene Jones says, "it won't matter what kind of defense anyone uses."

Schulz has thrown for 737 yards this season and with a super effort on Friday he can top his school record 1,065 yards set last season. His career total now reads 175 completions in 348 attempts for 1,822 yards and 19 touchdowns.

"This is the game I really want to win," Jones says of the Mona Shores contest. "Their coach (Jason Loving) said that a passing team can never win when I came here."

The key to Friday's game will not be the offense, however. It is the Tiger defense which will have to stop Mona Shores for the Tigers to win. Benton Harbor opponents have gained almost 300 yards a game against the porous Tiger defense.

"Our defense is going to be at full strength for the first time in three weeks," Jones says.

"Most of our injured players should be back and they should be able to do the job."

Mona Shores, boasting a 2-3 record, is led by quarterback Larry David. Mona Shores coach Jason Loving calls David a "very able thrower and an excellent runner."

David, a 5-10, 170-pounder, heads an all-junior backfield for the visitors. Joining him are 5-11, 195-pound tailback Dave Windatt, fullback Randy Smith and halfback Brian Jones. Windatt is getting only his second start of the season after nursing a bad ankle most of the year.

"We're going to have to show some consistency on offense," Loving says. "We were consistent last week (against Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills) for the first time all year."

Besides Schulz, Benton Harbor will be relying on running back Ray Thompson as one of its chief offensive weapons. Thompson caught nine passes, three for touchdowns, against Grand Haven.

Three other receivers will play an important part in Schulz' passing success. Wide receiver Willie Burton and flanker Maurice Burton, who oddly enough are not related, and tight end Dave Miles will probably start. Miles is nursing a mild ankle sprain sustained two weeks ago against Battle Creek Central but he should be ready.

Jones is hoping fullback Jerry McClinton will be ready to go. McClinton has missed the last two games after dislocating his ankle against Fruitport.

"We've got to keep control of the ball," Jones says. "If we can force them to throw the football, we're going to beat them."

Lions Face Potent Viking Offense

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Lions, who lead the National Football League in defense against runners, face a stern test against the Minnesota Vikings, who have an explosive ground and passing game.

One of the Vikings' offensive stars, Chuck Foreman, received strong praise Wednesday from Lions coach Rick Forzano, who called the Vikings' halfback "one of the best."

Foreman shares the NFL lead in pass receiving with 21 receptions.

He has scored four touchdowns on the ground and three via aerials from quarterback Fran Tarkenton.

As for his team's chances of stopping Foreman, Forzano said, "We've already played against John Brockington, Dave Hampton, Robert Newhouse and Walter Payton. I just hope we do as well against Foreman."

"They call him a halfback, but he can line up at split end, in a double wing or in the slot," Forzano said. "He may run or he may catch a pass coming out of the backfield."

A Lions' victory would knot the two teams at 4-1 in the National Football Conference's Central Division. But the Lions will have to play over their heads to stop the undefeated Vikings, who are coming off a fine 1974 season. Detroit has three victories but all were against teams considered mediocre — Green Bay, Atlanta and Chicago — and the Lions are not seen as having an excess of talent.

However, quarterback Bill Munson was surgically smooth in his performance last Sunday, hitting 19 of 30 passes as he led the Lions on a 27-7 romp over Chicago. Forzano has not said who will start at quarterback against Minnesota.

Beaver Frosh Win

Jamie Miller scored two touchdowns and intercepted a pair of passes as Eau Claire downed Michigan Lutheran 24-6 in freshman football played at the Titan's field. The Beavers are now 1-3 this season.

Lancer Gals Beat Eddies

Lakeshore put three girls in twin digits to cream Edwardsburg 33-36 Wednesday night in a basketball game at the Lancer gym.

Mandy Smith led the way with 13 points while Jodi Rabbers had 12 and Sue Kunkel 10. Markward paced the Eddies with seven. Kunkel also pulled down 13 rebounds.

Lakeshore, which only led 21-17 at the half, took command in the third quarter when it outscored Edwardsburg 20-6.

Lakeshore is now 7-5 overall and 4-3 in Blossomland action. The Lancers host Cassopolis next Monday.

The Lancers won the junior varsity game 36-33 to up their mark to 10-2 overall. Marlene Peldys sank 11 points and Kim Foster 10 for the Lancers.

Walton Okay

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Bill Walton, center for the Portland Trail Blazers, apparently received no more than bumps and bruises in an automobile accident Sunday night. X-rays showed no broken bones in the lower left leg or right knee.

Wednesday Full Of Foulups At Pan American Games

Cubans Pad Leading Gold Medal Total

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The United States may not officially recognize Cuba, but it's getting used to not recognizing the Cubans at the VII Pan American Games.

They're the ones with all the gold medals.

The insurgent, imperturbable Cubans seem to be one of the few islands of solidarity in an increasingly fouled-up scene here. It could be days before perplexing problems of Wednesday, the third day of competition, are laid to rest.

As a lighter, and hopefully less hectic, schedule began today, the Cubans had padded their gold medal total to 22, with 11 silver and eight bronze. The well-financed American effort trailed with 18 golds, but led in overall medals with 16 silver and 14 bronze, for a 48-41 edge over Cuba, Canada was next at 44-10.

Of the events held Wednesday in 15 categories, at least half experienced maddening, sometimes classic, foul-ups.

A mini riot — complete with unruly mobs and armed troops — broke out when Canada's Brad Farrow was declared winner over Cuba's Hector Rodriguez on a disqualification in semi-lightweight judo. The Cuban delegation was so incensed, Rodriguez' silver medal was refused.

Three days of judo competition ended Wednesday, but only after officials found a way for the participants to make it to the arena. The repechages and finals were called off once, early in the day when the athletes' bus broke down.

It was finally decided that perhaps the athletes could merely take another bus, rather than wait for the original carrier to get back from the repair shop.

Not all problems were so sagaciously solved, however.

When a controversy cropped up in one of the shooting events, somebody got the bright idea to count all the bullet holes in the targets.

Whether or not the problem was solved to everyone's satisfaction or not was never revealed. But the printed results gave the United States gold medals in all four categories.

Herschel Anderson, a native Tennessee now an army sergeant at Columbus, Ga., added a gold medal and a silver medal Wednesday, giving him five gold and one silver medals in shooting events. He was easily the top performer for any country in the Games. The United States so far has won golds in 10 of 12 firearms categories.

The Americans, still struggling along in track and field, lodged a protest over the results in the discus, where a Cuban who won the silver medal was accused of using a trick disc.

There was no solution in sight for that knotty problem. Nor was the relief likely for another official faux-pas.

American Bruce Davidson, the current world champion in three-day equestrian competition, was disqualified by officials in the middle of an impressive ride. It turned out though that erstwhile officials had the wrong man.

They wanted to disqualify Canadian Jim Day — not Davidson — for a minor rules infraction earlier.

Even though the right names were eventually matched with the right faces, officials held that Davidson should be disqualified since he quit in the middle of his run. American team members went into an indignant rage, no one would predict if the officials would be willing to lose face, admit their mistake, and let Davidson have another chance.

And finally, even the official total of medals awarded so far came up hopelessly wrong — probably partially due to the mechanical headaches of the sophisticated electronic result service.

The Associated Press and other news media continued to use their own totals, based on actual results, checked repeatedly.

Two of three U.S. golds in track came Wednesday. John Powell, a 28-year-old Cupertino, Calif., policeman, broke the Games' discus record with a toss of 204 feet, 7 inches. And Kathy Weston, a willowy 17-year-old from Reno, Nev., blazed to a Games record of two minutes, 4.95 seconds in the 800-meter run.

Robert Napier achieved a singular distinction in the middleweight weightlifting finals. He became the first in 13 chances to beat out a Cuban for a weightlifting gold medal. The Arlington, Tex., strongman did it by hoisting 306 pounds in the opening segment of the competition.

Margaret Murdock, a nursing student from Topeka, Kan., set a Pan Am record of 1,100 of a possible 1,200 points in the individual small bore rifle finals. Her performance helped her team to a gold, and another Pan Am mark, 4,040 of 4,800 possible. Americans were the top five performers in that category.

In center fire pistol shooting, Marvin Black of Columbus, Ga., and Anderson finished one-two in the individual section and aided the team to another gold medal.

In round-robin team events, the U.S. women downed Puerto Rico 3-0 in volleyball and Mexico, 99-65 in basketball. The men, meanwhile, managed to lose in field hockey, 5-0, to Argentina, and 3-1 to Mexico in soccer.

ENCINO, Calif. (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain and New York Knicks President Michael Burke will meet Friday to discuss a contract for the 7-foot-2 center to again play in the National Basketball Association.

However, Wilt's attorney said Wednesday that "it's now a question of motivating Wilt to play ball again. We never said Wilt was going to play again. What we wanted was the freedom to choose what to do."

The statement by S. Goldberg was not as optimistic as the statement by NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien, who said Wednesday he expects the Knicks and Los Angeles Lakers to resolve their battle for Chamberlain.

Wilt was to return from a vacation late today, Goldberg said. Burke will be here to talk contract Friday.

"Until this time, they (the Knicks) weren't even willing to suggest a number they were willing to pay him. They know what Wilt was making with the Lakers."

"Frankly, I think it'll take a hell of a lot of money to move him off that beach and off that mountain," Goldberg said. Chamberlain loves to play volleyball at the beach and would rather not leave his $1.5 million-house atop a mountain in fashionable Bel Air.

Meanwhile in New York, O'Brien said he doesn't expect the dispute over the 39-year-old center to reach his office.

He said that in the league's 30-year history, all disputes between teams involving players have been resolved by those teams. But he said if the Lakers and Knicks don't agree and one of them brings the dispute to him, he will resolve it.

Chamberlain played the 1972-1973 season with the Lakers. In 1973-74 he jumped to the American Basketball Association's San Diego Conquistadors, signing a three-year multi-million dollar contract to coach and play there. The Lakers won a court battle preventing him from playing and after coaching in 1973, he quit the team.

The Knicks, atting in the pivot since Willis Reed retired, would like to have Chamberlain, but the Lakers, not prepared to pay another center now that they have Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, want something in return for Wilt. The Knicks haven't said what, if anything, they're willing to give up to get him.

Leach Is Gaining Confidence

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Freshman Rick Leach is still making a beginner's mistakes, but he's still Michigan's quarterback.

That says something for his ability.

"I feel a lot better every week. I think our offense is ready to jell," Leach said after the eighth-ranked Wolverines' latest triumph, a 16-6 decision Saturday over archrival Michigan State.

Leach's passes have been erratic, but "I still have confidence in my throwing ability," he said, "and I think (Coach Bo) Schembechler does too."

Schembechler doesn't want to come down too hard with criticism because of Leach's limited experience.

"He's overly concerned about interceptions right now," Schembechler said. "I don't want to criticize him too much. He'll probably think this year he's playing for a gentleman compared to the next three years."

second in scoring with a 34.5 average for two games while Michigan is second in scoring defense allowing but 12 points in two games.

Michigan leads the league in rushing with an average of 326 yards a game and the Wolverines also are No. 1 in rushing defense on a yield of 107.5 yards a game. Illinois is second in rushing with a 318.5 average and Northwestern is second in rushing defense, allowing 112 yards a game.

Northwestern leads in total offense with 450 yards a game with Ohio State second at 404. Ohio State leads in total defense allowing 190 yards a game to 207.5 for Michigan.

Minnesota is the passing leader with an average of 100 yards a game and Northwestern is second at 149.5 while Wisconsin is No. 1 in passing defense allowing an average of 17 yards a game.

Minnesota's Tom Dunne is the individual passing leader on a graded system followed by Cornelius Greene of Ohio State and Randy Dean of Northwestern. Dunne has 21 completions in 34 attempts for 312 yards. Greene has 11 of 15 for 202 yards and Dean 17 of 25 for 291 yards.

Gordon Bell of Michigan is tops in rushing with 315 yards in two games. Greg Boykin of Northwestern and Courtney Snyder of Indiana have 247 yards each followed by Scott Dierking of Purdue with 238 and Archie Griffin of Ohio State with 228.

Dean leads in total offense with 344 yards. Dunne has 332 and Bell 315 while Boykin and Pete Johnson of Ohio State are the scoring leaders with 30 points each.

Scott Yelvington of Northwestern and Mike Jones of Minnesota are tied for the lead in pass receiving. Each has caught eight passes but Yelvington has 123 yards and Jones 103. Craig Cassidy of Ohio State is No. 1 in interceptions with four.

Fennville Harriers New A-O Champions

FENNVILLE — Fennville put five men in the top six places to win the Allegan-Ottawa cross country championship held here Wednesday.

The Blackhaws finished with 18 points while Covert was second with 62 points. Allendale came in third with 87 points and Hopkins was fourth with 94 points.

Bob Wood of Michigan is the leader in kick scoring. He has 21 points on six field goals and three extra points. Dan Beaver of Illinois and Vince Lania of Wisconsin are second with 15 points each. Mike Northington of Purdue is tops in kickoff returns with a 27.2 average. He has returned eight for 218 yards. Tim Fox of Ohio State is leading in punt returns with a 12.2 average.

Tom Skladany of Ohio State is the leading punter with a 44.5 average and Northwestern's Dean is second with a 43.5 average followed by Trent Snook of Indiana at 41.9 and John Anderson of Michigan with 41.6.

John Crane of Fennville was first in 17:43. Other top Blackhawk finishers were Mike Bushee, second; Mike Shields fourth; Cresencio Sanchez fifth and Tim Breed sixth.

The only person able to break up the Fennville brigade was Robert Maggard of Covert who finished in third place.

Bear Golfers Take Third In League

KALAMAZOO — St. Joseph finished fourth in the Big Seven conference weekly golf jamboree held at the Elks Country Club here Wednesday and secured a third place finish in the final season's standings.

In the meet, Loy Norrix and Portage Northern tied for top honors with a team total of 306 with Lakeview third at 311 and St. Joe fourth with 320. Portage Central was fifth at 328, Holland sixth with 330 and Niles seventh at 335.

Lakeview and Loy Norrix tied for the season's team honors with the Bears third, Portage Northern fourth, Holland fifth, Portage Central sixth and Niles seventh.

Dave Sutton of Portage Central was medalist in the meet with a 74. Drew Najjar led St. Joseph with a 78 while Cory Benford shot a 79, Bill Ammonson an 81 and John Blain an 82.

Mark Olson of Loy Norrix took medalist honors for the season with a total of 533 strokes in seven matches. Benford was second with a 538 total and Mike Sible of Lakeview finished third at 537.

The next competition for the Bears is Saturday when they travel to East Lansing for the state finals.

Roundball Rules Meeting Stated

The Michigan High School Athletic Association will hold a basketball rules meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 29, in the Gary Center gym at Western Michigan in Kalamazoo.

At the meeting, pertinent state association matters, 1975-76 basketball rules changes and points of emphasis in basketball rules will be discussed by a representative of the state association office. The movie "Basketball Today" will also be shown.

Dukes Convicted As Fake Lawyer

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Dukes, an All-American basketball player at Seton Hall in 1963 and later a star with the New York Knicks of the National Basketball Association, has been convicted of practicing law without a license.

Evidence presented during the six-day trial in a Manhattan Criminal Court showed that Dukes had posed as an attorney specializing in negligence cases from June 1966 through late last year. He faces up to three years in jail on the conviction.

New Buffalo, Lakeshore, St. Joe, South Haven Bands Win Top Scores

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

New Buffalo, South Haven, Lakeshore and St. Joseph high school bands captured Division I or excellent ratings at the Southwest Michigan Band and Orchestra marching band festival at Dickinson stadium in St. Joseph last night.

Superior performances with Division II ratings were awarded Benton Harbor high school in Class AA and Cassopolis, Hartford, Decatur and Berrien Springs high school bands in Class C.

New Buffalo is Class C and South Haven, Lakeshore and St. Joseph are Class AA.

Band ratings are made against a set of standards as determined by three judges. Judges were Terry Zylman, Hastings; John Whitwell, Ann Arbor and Robert Powell, Charlotte, who judged performances. And Robert Smith, Three Rivers, who was inspection judge.

A crowd of nearly 1,600 persons watched as bands performed despite a sharp wind that blew in off Lake Michigan.

Robert Boerma, director of the South Haven high school band, and vice president of the Southwest Michigan Band and Orchestra association, presented trophies to the 800 bandmen lined up on the field.

Each band performed approximately 10 minutes.

Chairman of the local arrangements was Robert Brown, St. Joseph high school band director.

Rich-Poor Conference Ends

PARIS (AP) — Representative industrial and developing nations agreed today to shelve their differences until a meeting of foreign ministers in December launches negotiations for new trade, aid and financial relations among the countries of the non-Communist world. The 10 delegations concluded a three-day preparatory conference with a joint declaration of broad, generalized guidelines for a 27-nation ministerial conference opening in Paris Dec. 16. The declaration recommended that the ministers set up four negotiating commissions, on energy, raw materials, development and financial matters. The delegates agreed on the general orientation of the commissions but left to them the decisions on specific questions they would or would not discuss.

N-Plant 'Reservations' Eyed

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) is looking into the feasibility of building nuclear power "reservations" — areas of up to 100 square miles containing as many as 40 nuclear reactors.

The idea has drawn fire from Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (PCA) officials and state environmentalists, many of whom say the plan is unbelievable. And, many are worried about water raids on the Great Lakes.

Such a nuclear complex would produce enough electricity for two New York Cities but consume twice as much water as Chicago.

It's estimated such a complex would take 10 years, $40 billion and 10,000 people to build. Its cooling system could significantly change an area's weather, say officials.

"It's Orwellian," said Minnesota environmentalist Rodney Loper. "That they're even considering it is maddening."

Minnesota's biggest worry, according to PCA Director Peter Gove, is that the federal government would line the Great Lakes with "six pack" complexes of a half-dozen nuclear reactors each.

Gove also questions the practicality of building a number of nuclear reactors in one place.

"I cannot believe that anyone in the NRC...could even in their wildest imagination think the U.S. or Canadian public would allow a concentration of 10 to 40 nuclear reactors in any location," Gove said.

Gove inherited from former PCA Director Grant Merritt membership on the secretive Great Lakes Water Quality Board. At the board's most recent meeting in Detroit, Gove said a "remarkable document" from the NRC was distributed.

That document was a "conceptualized description" of nuclear energy centers being considered by the commission.

Gove said he was disturbed that the St. Lawrence River was mentioned as the site for the first of such energy centers. Gove said he also doesn't like the idea that the NRC appears to be promoting nuclear power rather than simply regulating it.

The NRC was directed by Congress to determine how practical and feasible large energy centers would be.

The NRC, in its report to the Water Quality Board, conceded that huge problems remain. Heat dissipation through cooling, the NRC said, "can be expected to raise issues involving weather modification, such as increased rainfall, local cloudiness, even severe turbulence."

Any 40-reactor, conventionally-cooled plant could, according to the NRC, require twice the amount of water consumed by Chicago.

Merritt said he worries about the NRC choosing a site on the Great Lakes.

"My greatest fear is that they would choose Lake Superior," Gove said.

NEAT TRICK: Mark Glines, a Sousaphone player in the St. Joseph high school band, balances big horn while polishing shoe prior to inspection at Southwest Michigan marching band festival last night at Dickinson stadium.

SHE IS COLD: Melanee Hendrix, twirler in the Lakeshore high school band, not only looks cold — she said she was while waiting to perform at Southwest Michigan marching band festival at Dickinson stadium last night. But button on coat was prophetic — Lakeshore won Division I rating.

PASSES INSPECTION: Robert Smith of Three Rivers, inspects Benton Harbor high school band and drum major Joseph Clifton prior to band's appearance in Southwest Michigan marching band festival at Dickinson stadium. Band passed inspection with flying colors.

Bangor Charities Appeal Continues

BANGOR — A group of about 20 Bangor residents voted last night to continue the Bangor United Charities effort.

The decision came towards the end of a 1½-hour meeting in the Bangor library called to determine the fate of the annual combined appeal.

Volunteers attending the meeting said they believe the community would still rather see one combined drive than a series of drives by different organizations.

Charles Seymore, president of United Charities, said last week that the organization has had difficulty developing community interest and participation in the annual drive that supports 11 local agencies.

Volunteers last night set a second meeting, for 8 p.m., Oct. 23, at the Simpson United Methodist church, during which a drive chairman will be named and a goal set.

Representatives of organizations which benefit from the drive should attend the meeting, according to David Walton, president of Du-Wel Metal Products, Inc., Bangor.

Walton presided over last night's meeting in Seymore's absence.

The group also named division chairmen last night.

John Rathbun was named to head up the professional division while William Pete Walte was named to lead the business district division. Walton is to head the industry division drive.

Bangor United Charities distributed $6,000 to the 11 different organizations last year.

STUDENTS WANT HER OUT Texan Ignores Protests

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Dr. Lorene Rogers, president of the University of Texas, watched as black balloons drifted over the football game.

Angry students had released the balloons as part of their dwindling protest against the selection of the 61-year-old biochemist as head of the Austin university.

Their three-day classroom boycott had generated little support. A rally the day before the game attracted only about 1,000 of the 41,000 students. Regents stood fast behind Dr. Rogers, and she said she was not about to resign.

DR. LORENE ROGERS
Students are angry

Did the balloons and other gestures of protest get to her? "No, I don't let it bother me," she said.

Regents selected her on a 5-to-3 vote Sept. 12, with Lady Bird Johnson among those voting "no." Her qualifications were not at issue, a dissenting regent said. But some questioned whether she had the support of teachers and students after serving as acting president for a year.

A faculty-student advisory committee had unanimously rejected her four times in considering names to pass on to the regents.

Protesters contended the university was being run by bankers and businessmen with little concern for education. They read the regents' rejection of the advisory committee nominations as indifference to faculty and students.

"The only way we can have academic freedom at the university is to have academics running it," said a faculty member at a poorly attended Sept. 26 rally.

But running through the protests, including a rally of 4,000 students on Sept. 17 and a march by 2,000 on regents chairman Allan Shivers' antebellum home two days later, were some objections to Dr. Rogers herself.

Some protest signs called her a "puppet" of the regents, who have a reputation for selecting

UT-Austin presidents, then discarding them a few years later. Foremost among the objections is an alleged "enemies list."

Seven professors, all of them vocal in campus affairs, received smaller raises than their department heads had recommended. They contend in a federal court suit that Dr. Rogers cut back the raises to punish them, violating their constitutional right of free speech.

"We have made her look bad," said history Prof. Phillip White. "She has punished us because we dared to challenge the presumed prerogative of the administration to mismanage the university in secret."

Dr. Rogers responded that it was "ridiculous" to assume she had singled out those seven for punishment when she had cut back raises recommended for more than 70 teachers. She said the cutbacks were designed to equalize salaries of those who had not received merit raises in the past few years with those who had.

Shivers, a former governor, said he was not about to back down on the Rogers appointment.

"This woman is strong and intelligent and if they give her half a chance, she will make a great president," Shivers said.

The regents, he said, did listen to the faculty-student committee but told the committee from the beginning the regents would not be bound by the committee recommendations.

"I think they are just upset because they wanted to select a president ... They were just hell-bent against Rogers from the beginning," Shivers said.

Thirteen-Grand Cadillac Impresses Russ Visitor

DETROIT (AP) — Nikolay Sudarikov seemed right at home walking along the Cadillac assembly line.

Sudarikov makes his living as a tool and die maker in a Russian Moskvich automobile plant.

He seemed impressed as he ran his hand over a $13,000 1976 Cadillac Eldorado. "I see very good work being done," he said. "I can recognize that this is an expensive car."

Sudarikov was one of four Russian youth leaders who visited Detroit Tuesday as part of a cultural exchange program sponsored by the International Division of the YMCA and the committee of Youth Organizations of the U.S.S.R.

The group represented workers from various Soviet industries, as well as Komsomol, the youth division of the Soviet Communist Party. The trip, a two-week tour which has included stops in Washington, New York, and Bridgeport, Conn., was designed to teach the visitors about American manufacturing and management techniques.

A group of Americans are making a similar tour of the Soviet Union.

After watching Cadillacs roll off the assembly line at the rate of one every minute and 15 seconds, one of the group was moved to ask whether the cars were guaranteed to work. He only nodded when told Cadillac's warranty covered the first year or 12,000 miles.

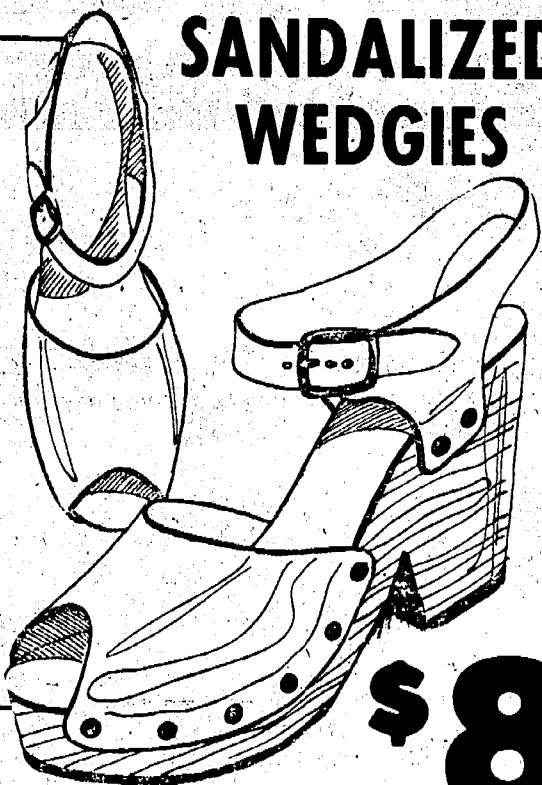

At the end of the tour, Mikhail Marizutula, head of the delegation, said since his youth he had heard that "Detroit is not only the center of the auto industry in the United States but also the world. Today we are sure of it."

VICKSBURG, Mich.(AP)—A falling tree crushed a man at his rural Vicksburg home Wednesday.

Kalamazoo County deputies said Robert Neesen, 54, was chopping down the tree when its trunk somehow fell upon him and killed him.

Fed Move Boosts Stocks

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks gained broadly today in response to a move by the Federal Reserve to make extra money available in the banking system.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up nearly a point, and gamblers took a 4-1 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

The session began 15 minutes after the normal opening time of 10 a.m. EDT because of a fire drill at the NYSE.

Late Wednesday the Fed reduced the amount of funds banks must keep in their reserves against time deposits from 3 to 1 per cent.

The action has the effect of freeing additional cash for use in the banking system. The result, in theory, should be both reduced upward pressure on interest rates and more money in the economy to fuel a recovery from the recession.

Today's early prices included Congoleum Corp., up 1/4 at 10 1/2; Gulf Oil, ahead 1/2 at 22 1/2; American Home Products, up 1/4 at 36; and Pfizer, 1/4 higher at 28 1/2.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones Industrial average gained 1.97 to 837.22.

But losers outnumbered gainers by about an 8-7 margin on the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index was down .04 at 47.24.

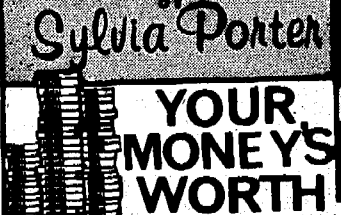

Big Board volume slowed to 14.44 million shares from 19.96 million the day before.

The American Stock Exchange market value index dropped .16 to 83.97.

HOW HOSPITALS CAN SAVE

As the past three columns have stressed, you, a patient, can help slash your own hospital costs by Pre-Admission Testing (PAT) or not going into the hospital one hour before you must; by getting out as fast as you can and relying on home health care, by walk-in surgery or going in and out the same day.

And there is much more that hospitals themselves can do — and many are doing — to curb the cost up-spiral.

(1) In California, for instance, a program called CASH (Committee for Administrative Services in Hospitals) tries to apply the same time-saving procedures used by industry to hospitals.

Set up in 1963 by the Los Angeles Blue Cross Plan, CASH is now an independent organization. Last year, it reported cost savings of $47 million annually for 235 participating hospitals accounting for more than half of California's hospital beds.

Along the same lines, in Pittsburgh, 27 hospitals are using the Blue Cross Plans' management engineering staff to get help in such areas as nurse staffing, dietary, laundry, housekeeping and business operations. Computers also are being increasingly used as time and money savers for everything from streamlining admissions to monitoring cardiac patients to screening charges.

(2) "Utilization Review" committees are becoming commonplace in hospitals to make sure hospital stays are kept at a minimum and services rendered to patients are necessary and medically proper.

Of the nation's 73 Blue Cross Plans, 45 now require the health facilities with which they have contracts to set up such committees. A recent survey of the 45 Plans found all reporting a decline in the average lengths of stay in hospitals in their areas. In the Philadelphia area, the decline was from 8.5 to 7.7 days; in Virginia, from 7.6 to 6.9 days.

(3) Also significant is a movement among Blue Cross Plans to monitor claims through a computerized PUR (Plan Utilization Review) procedure which evaluates the appropriateness of lengths of stay and such service charges as X-rays, lab fees, drugs, biopsies, physical therapy. Claims are screened on the basis of 100 different diagnoses accounting for 70 per cent of all claims.

If there is a marked deviation from certain standards, based on previous experiences, the claim is automatically flagged and reviewed. PUR is clearly a

Municipal Bonds At Low Ebb Already

By JOHN CUNIFF, AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Some highly regarded authorities on municipal bonds believe a financial default by New York City isn't likely to have further serious impact on the already inflated borrowing costs of other cities.

Their reason for the relatively optimistic view, if that is what it may be called, is based primarily on the assumption that so much damage to confidence already has occurred that a default could hardly make it worse.

Borrowing through the issuance of bonds has been made literally impossible for many local and state governments and their agencies. Even those with the highest ratings are forced to pay record high rates.

"What do you mean 'ripple effect,'" said a Kansas City dealer about the widespread loss of confidence and resulting higher borrowing costs. "It's been a tidal wave here." Some dealers believe it can't get worse.

"I don't think that in or out of New York municipal bonds will be discounted much more," said Siesel E. Canady Jr., of John Nuveen & Co., a 77-year-old house that specializes in tax-exempt municipal bonds.

"An actual default will be no catastrophe," he said. "There will be an initial drop in the market for certain, but a rebound will follow and in a few weeks the market will be back to where it was before."

Canady doesn't eliminate the possibility of damage to confidence that might take years to overcome. Nor does he ignore that chance that "social and other problems might follow in New York City." But he does feel the impact on the structure of the market, and trading, will be relatively slight.

A return to existing conditions however can hardly be construed as completely encouraging, because the market today is so badly depressed. Roughly $20 billion has been erased from the value of municipal securities in just one year.

The Standard & Poor's municipal bond index shows average borrowing costs now are at 7.32 per cent, after reaching an all-time high of 7.40 a week ago. A year ago the index was about 6.6 per cent.

BH Pair Arrested On Check Charges

A Benton Harbor man and woman were arrested Wednesday by police from Benton Harbor and St. Joseph in connection with an alleged attempt to cash a stolen check for $433.

Booked at the Berrien county jail on a charge of fraudulently uttering and publishing a check was Eddie Thomas, Jr., 21, of 187 Lake street, and Zelma Marie Butler, 20, of 251 Kirby street, on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property.

St. Joseph police said the check was taken from a desk at Peoples State Bank, State and Ship streets. Benton Harbor police detectives took the pair into custody at Farmers and Merchants bank, 94 West Main street, Benton Harbor. Police said the check was endorsed, but had not been stamped by the bank.

The check was described as a stock dividend.

SILVER CREEK Dual Fire-Funding Approved By Board

DOWAGIAC — The Silver Creek township board last night agreed to continue funding both fire departments serving the township.

A contract was renewed with the Sister Lakes fire department through April 1, 1977, providing for funding at a rate of $8,000 a year.

The board also approved a contract with the Indian Lake fire department for funding the department at an amount equal to revenue from 1.5 mills annually. That contract will expire on April 1, 1976, at which time it will be renegotiated. The annual rate will be between $12 to $13,000, according to Miss Jean Casoy, township clerk.

Township Supervisor John Jerue said the contracts will come due on April 1 because that is the starting date for the township's annual budget.

In other areas, the board heard a representative from the Kalamazoo engineering firm of Gove and Associates recommend that a township-wide study be made for providing sanitary sewer service.

The study could be funded in part from grants from the state and federal government, the representative said. The board tabled the recommendation for further study.

Device To Cut Gas Use Is Tested

SMITHTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A small bullet-shaped device which its inventor says will reduce auto gasoline consumption by up to 25 per cent was demonstrated in this Long Island community Wednesday.

Known as the meterjet, it replaces the idle adjusting valve at the base of the carburetor and automatically meters the proper air-to-fuel ratio, said developer Peter Lubrano.

"Automobiles, trucks and boat engines were designed to burn more air and less fuel, but the carburetor would not permit this," he said. With the meterjet, he said, more air is burned.

He said it has a ball check valve which makes the valve operable only under high inlet vacuum conditions that stem from deceleration and-or engine idle.

At cruising speeds or on deceleration, increased vacuum in the manifold pulls back the stainless steel ball from its seat, drawing air through the meterjet check valve, thus providing a better mixture with the gas, Lubrano said.

Buchananite Injured In Combine Fire

NILES — Rex Best, 31, Bertrand road, Buchanan, sustained a scorched lung while fighting a corn combine fire north of here yesterday afternoon, according to Niles township firemen.

Firemen said Best told officers he was driving a combine on Hilary road near US-31 north of Niles yesterday, when the engine of the machine caught fire about 1 p.m.

Best said he ran to US-31, flagged down a truck driver, borrowed a fire extinguisher from truck driver Lavern Hobart, of LaPaz, Ind., and returned to the combine. While fighting the fire, Best inhaled smoke and heat and suffered a scorched lung, firemen said.

Firemen said they were notified of the fire by Hobart. Cause of the fire has not been determined, and no damage estimate has been made, firemen said.

Firemen said Best was treated at Pawating hospital, Niles, and later released.

American Seating Sales, Earnings Ahead Of 1974

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Net sales for the third quarter of this year were $33.1 million, up from $24.1 million in the same period of 1974, American Seating Co. said Wednesday.

Earnings were $1.1 million or 76 cents per share of common stock for the three months ended Sept. 30. In the same period last year, earnings were $124,000 or four cents per share.

Earnings for 1975 were $1.7 million, or $1.12 per common share, compared with a loss of $34,000 or 39 cents in 1974.

Coloma Brothers Arrested In Chase

COLOMA — Two Coloma brothers were arrested about 3 p.m. yesterday after a stop-and-go police chase of a car and its occupants at speeds up to 80 miles per hour in and south of Coloma, according to Coloma township police.

Arrested on charges of eluding a police officer and driving under the influence of intoxicants, second offense, was Kenneth Ryther, 44, route 1, Coloma. His brother, George C. Ryther, 68, 245 East Logan, Coloma, was arrested on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, police said.

On two occasions, police said, the car, stopped by pursuing police officers, sped off. The chase went through the Coloma business district and ended south of the city on Friday road, police said.

The car was first stopped by police at Sassafras and Logan streets but sped away as township officers got out of the police car, police said.

The car was stopped for a second time at Logan and Thomas streets and a passenger got out of the car, but the driver refused to get out, and drove away, leaving officers behind.

Police said that after a chase through the Coloma business district, police cruisers boxed the vehicle in on Friday road and ended the chase.

The car pursued by police had run several oncoming vehicles off Friday road before the chase ended, police said.

The Ryther brothers were lodged in Berrien county jail pending arraignment, township police said.

BH Man Acquitted Of Check Charge

A Benton Harbor man accused as an accomplice in the cashing of an alleged stolen ADC check was acquitted of an uttering and publishing charge yesterday in Berrien Circuit court.

Jurors in Judge William S. White's court deliberated only 30 minutes before clearing Tyrone Hitchcock, 26, of 1008 Superior street. A conviction carries a maximum sentence of 14 years imprisonment.

Hitchcock had been accused of helping to cash a stolen ADC check for $106 Dec. 23 at the Partners and Merchants bank in Benton Harbor.

Opposing counsel in the one-day trial were St. Joseph Atty. Richard Globensky and Asst. Prosecutor Quentin Pulcher.

Robber Gets Up To 25 Years

A Dowagiac man convicted of armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon yesterday was sentenced in Berrien Circuit court to concurrent prison terms of up to 25 years.

Sentenced by Judge Chester J. Byrns was Rodney Dale Brookins, 21, of 515 South Front street, Dowagiac. He was sentenced to 2 to 4 years in prison for the assault charge and 6 to 25 years for the armed robbery conviction.

The sentence was the same as his two co-defendants, Ardis Knight, 23, and Michael Stevens, 25, both of Dowagiac, received last month from Byrns.

The trio on Dec. 8 robbed Ronda Langendohk of about $300 at gunpoint at 149 Briar Crest lane, Niles, and threatened (assaulted) John Krukowski with a pistol during the same incident.

Testimony during the trial indicated the men went to a Niles home to purchase marijuana, and stole money and marijuana.

"The fact that the victims are not the leading citizens of Niles and the fact that a sale of drugs was involved does not justify the commission of a crime against them," Byrns noted in sentencing Brookins.

Sixteen Appear In Fifth District Court

A Sodus township man charged with murder was among three people bound over to Circuit court Wednesday. Also in Berrien Fifth District court two demanded examinations, charges against two were dismissed and 11 were sentenced.

Bound over to Circuit court were:

James E. Johnson, 47, of 5109 River road, Sodus township, charged with second degree murder against Russell Corney Oct. 4 in Sodus township. He remains jailed without bond.

Mike Turian, 33, of Benton Harbor, and Eddie G. Gunn, 29, of 1961 Union, apartment 1-B, Benton township, charged with larceny over $100 involving the theft of anti-freeze Sept. 24 in Benton township. They waived examinations and remained free on bond.

Demanding examinations were:

Eugene Branch, 23, of 788 East Britain, Benton Harbor, on a charge of breaking and entering a car Oct. 10 in Benton Harbor. He failed to post $1,500 bond.

Aaron C. Wells, 17, of 775 McAllister, Benton Harbor, charged with breaking and entering a Benton Harbor dwelling Sept. 16. He posted bond of $5,000 and was released.

Also yesterday other charges against Wells and a woman were dismissed. Charges of receiving and concealing stolen property valued over $100 were dismissed against Wells and Belvie J. Norman, 24, same address.

Sentenced for the following violations were:

Marijuana violations — Lawrence E. Bostic, 28, of Bolingbrook, Ill., fine and costs of $101 for possession; Alice F. Cross, 27, of 1242 Columbus, Benton Harbor, 90 days in jail, $200 and two years probation for possession; Daniel J. Ostfeld, 21, of 134 Kimber, Berrien Springs, $50 or 10 days in jail for use.

Disorderly person — Larry Katts, 18, of Beach avenue, Coloma, $70 or 14 days in jail for indecent language.

Driving while intoxicated — LeRoy H. Brown, 43, of 67th street, Hartford, $150; David J. Kallish, 40, of Chicago, $150 or 30 days in jail; Willie L. Johnson, 31, of 476 Colfax, Benton Harbor, and Timothy S. Brady, 19, of Woodhaven $151 or 30 days in jail each.

Impaired driving — Raymond C. Pinehout, 45, of 558 Lemon Creek road, Baroda, $125; Donald L. Aldrich, 38, of 827 North Euclid, Benton township, $151.

Driving while license revoked — Randy E. Arlio, 28, of Millburg, three days in jail and $80.

Guardian Claims Girl Could Live

KAREN ANN QUINLAN Sonne Hope?

NEW YORK (AP) — The court-appointed guardian of Karen Ann Quinlan, who has been in a coma six months, maintained there is "some hope of recovery" for her.

The guardian said the comatose young woman should not be removed from a respirator.

The 21-year-old woman's adoptive parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Quinlan, have asked the court to have their daughter's physicians remove her from the life sustaining equipment. They said she is in a "chronic vegetative state", with no hope of recovery.

Lawyers' Trust Joins Lobbies

WASHINGTON (AP) — A political trust fund that didn't exist at the beginning of this year is now one of the most financially secure, government records show.

The new "Attorneys Congressional Campaign Trust," group of lawyers opposing no-fault auto insurance, raised $400,000 in donations between its creation last February and the Sept. 30 filing date for reports with the Federal Election Commission.

The lawyers' trust outpaced any other new political trust and now almost ranks among such long-established, well-funded national lobbies as the American Medical Association, major labor unions, teachers and dairy farmers, the quarterly report showed Wednesday.

Rule May Boost Cost Of Mowers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new federal safety standard under consideration for power lawn mowers would add $44 to the price of bottom-of-the-line models appealing to young married couples, manufacturers told a government agency today.

A Stanford Research Institute report commissioned by the industry projected that the complex standard would put 15 to 20 lawn mower manufacturers out of business, depress sales by 20 per cent and cost consumers $387.5 million, the first year.

Penn Central Reports Loss

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Penn Central Transportation Co., operator of the bankrupt Penn Central Railroad, has reported it lost $208.8 million in the first eight months of this year, more than twice what it lost during the same period in 1974.

LEGAL NOTICE

INVITATION FOR DEMOLITION BIDS

The Community Development Department of the City of St. Joseph is securing bids for demolition and site clearance of a single family dwelling located at 821 Broad Street, St. Joseph. All bids will be accepted in the City Clerk's office until 2:00 P.M. Eastern Standard Time on October 24, 1976. Bids will then be opened publicly and read aloud.

Copies of demolition specifications are available in Room 21 in the City Hall and include information needed with respect to site clearance and land restoration.

All bidders are subject to the President's Executive Order 11948, which requires non-discrimination in employment under federal assisted contracts.

The City reserves the right to waive defects in the bid and to reject any or all bids.

TYRONE'S DAUGHTER: First flick coming

WHITMORE: No tour but he's on film

FONTEYN &amp; NUREYEV: Close but platonic

Today In History

By Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Oct. 16, the 289th day of 1975. There are 76 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date, in 1964, the Peoples Republic of China announced it had tested its first nuclear bomb, making it the world's fifth atomic power.

On this date:

In 1793, Queen Marie Antoinette of France was executed by guillotine.

Fall Color Past Peak

By The Associated Press

Michigan's annual fall color show is over except in the southeastern corner of the state, with peak hues reported at Jackson and Monroe.

The Automobile Club of Michigan says most leaves already are on the ground north of Pontiac and west of Jackson.

One State City Is Candidate For Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Harbor Springs, Mich., is one of 20 communities competing for the National Municipal League's All-America Cities awards.

The Emmet County town of 1,662 was cited from among nearly 500 entries for redeveloping its shopping district, improving its recreational facilities and upgrading educational and cultural activities.

It was the only Michigan city among the finalists.

"MR. AND MRS. FERGUSON REALLY DON'T HAVE MUCH TO SELL, BUT THEY GET LONESOME AND WANT SOME COMPANY EVERY SO OFTEN."

TYRONE'S BEAUTIFUL DAUGHTER

Taryn Power Making First Feature Film

Q: I've read many times that one of Tyrone Power's daughters was a beauty and would surely make it as an actress. But I've never seen her in anything. — J.Y., Tulsa, Okla.

A: Patience. Taryn Power, whose mother is Linda Christian, is only 21 and making her first feature film on the island of Malta. Her co-star, by the way, is Patrick Wayne, whose father you may know as "Duke."

Q: Why was the wonderful James Whitmore replaced in the role of "Give 'Em Hell, Harry!"? I never heard of Ed Nelson, who took over as Harry Truman. — P.L., Boston, Mass.

A: Whitmore's demands, mostly financial, put the producers of the show on the Rudolf Nureyev? — L.D., Topeka, Kan.

A: She says that she did indeed love him with a very special affection but it was entirely platonic. He was, she writes, deeply attached to another person at the time and although she often dined with Rudi, 19 years her junior, he almost always went home alone.

Q: Since Jimmy Connors and Chris Evert "made up" at the Forest Hills tennis championships, has he stepped seeing that girl he was with at the Wimbledon tournament in England? — Y.B., Bloom, Miss.

A: Connors was with actress Susan George recently in Bermuda and may be seeing her again soon if Hollywood movie producer Roger Corman gets his way. Corman wants to give Jimmy a part in an upcoming flick called "Thunder and Lightning," which will star Miss George. Jimmy would be the "Thunder," no doubt.

Q: You once wrote that actor-singer Richard Harris wanted a daughter. Did he get one? — Y.U., Lake Charles, La.

A: Harris, 45, and his bride of 16 months, Ann Turkel, 27, are hard at work on the project. Their goal is to produce a daughter sometime in 1976 to go with Harris' three sons from an earlier marriage. Ann says that she has been taking medical treatments to increase the chances of any offspring turning out female, though most authorities say there is little you can do in this regard except wish with all your might.

Q: Does anyone realize that as cars become smaller it is getting to be an increasing problem for those who must take their wheelchairs with them whenever they ride in a car? — D.S., Omaha, Neb.

A: A firm in Coventry, England, is testing a small vehicle specifically designed to accommodate wheelchair occupants without need for help from others. The rear of the car is lowered by hydraulic controls to provide a ramp for entry of the chair into the vehicle where it is clamped in position as the driver's seat. The hydraulic mechanism then elevates the rear suspension to normal level.

BY BERT BACHARACH

FAMOUS LAST WORDS:

"I'll come to bed in a few minutes, dear, I just want to finish this crossword puzzle."

New York, these nights, resounds with the sound of good music — with Petula Clark holding forth for another week at the Waldorf's Empire Room, and Jack Jones singing better than ever at The Plaza's Persian Room. One second interview with Bobby Vinton: "If you think you have no faults — that's another one!"

Medical science has discovered a new malady — "Frisbee finger." It's a slight abrasion on the middle finger of the throwing hand, and doctors say the best treatment is abstinence till the abrasion heals. Bar-Snooping at Monsignore, NYC: Before you pour a drink, see that your glass is clean. Dust vitiates the flavor of an alcoholic beverage, especially a good wine. For the record: "The People's Almanac," by Irving Wallace and son David Wallechinsky, will be the largest single volume ever published — the size of 10 average-size books.

FADED PHRASES: (old radio version): "Hi-Ho, everybody," "The Shadow Knows," "Yoo hoo, Mrs. Bloom," "I love to spend this hour with you," "Play, Don," "Not so fast," and "Wanna buy a duck?" George Segal is pleased that his "The Black Bird" comedy spoof turned out so well. (In fact, he's raven about it.) Roy Scheider, star of "Jaws," has appeared on 31 talk shows in behalf of the film. (Roy's jaws are as important as the shark's!) How's this for alliteration?

SMATTERING OF SIGNS: A Sagittarian is blunt at times in speech, but that is the end of it — he holds no grudges. Pisceans are often thought to be moody, when they are only shy. The Capricorn native secretly craves affection and attention, but others must make the first gesture.

PLYMOUTH VOLARE: Volare sedan, a member of Plymouth's new family of compacts for 1976, features large glass area for visibility and ample head and leg room. Styling has European flavor. Volare offers quietness, comfortable ride, convenience items traditionally associated with standard-size Chrysler cars.
